COAL STRIKE PROBE TO START

Rogers Glad to See Democrats After a "Divvy"

(Special To The News)

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 20.—The bill of Senator Walsh of Montana the other day to investigate the power trust kinder put the boys in the senate on record as to who was on the pay roll.

I was glad to see some Democrats among those favored, for it shows the old party is learning enough to not just sit as usual and let the Republicans grab everything.

Fine chance that bill had passing before the campaign funds were made up. The older Democrats are getting smarter every day. They wanted in on campaign contributions, too.

It's a great country if you got the influence.

Just a taxpayer.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Ice harvesting has been started in western Pennsylvania. While little natural ice has been harevsted in Lawrence county, of late years, nearly 100 men have been engaged for a week or so, harvesting ice from the lake at Stoneboro.

Police of Erie are engaged in a campaign to break up all night parking on the streets of that city, similar to that being inaugurated in New Castle. In Erie a fine of $1 is being imposed upon the owners of the cars in addition to towing and storage charges.

Report of Dr. William Steen, city health officer, that there were only 150 cases of contagion in this entire city during the year of 1927, is a most interesting one. The big decrease in number of diphtheria cases reported shows that the campaign for immunization of school children is bearing fruit.

In the theatres we notice more than the ordinary number of what John Barrymore and a few of the other legits call "trained seals". Right at the most interesting part of the dialogue or in the most pianissimo slur of the violin, a cough crashes from the first shelf, to rebound back again from the stag and remind several others that now is the time to come to the aid of the cough. And usually they do. Someone, evidently, has unsewed himself for the spring too soon.

The hill was more than ordinarily slippery last evening. Cars without chains found themselves by the mysterious laws that govern sliding bodies turned completely about when they cut their wheels sharply.

Young Pa Newcs observations over the week-end were necessarily somewhat limited, as he spent most of the time trying to guard himself against being a barking seal. But he only succeeded partly. Now he barks only on the slightest provocation, where formerly it was rather constant.

Campaign for raising funds to save Cook's forest has not yet been completed, according to latest announcement, and there is still time for any local citizens interested to share in this work of saving the forest. Wouldn't it be interesting to drive into that forest today? It certainly would be a picture.

Police officers who have been directed to report street depressions and bad sidewalks will be kept busy for some time to come, if they carry out the directions of the police chief, energetically.

These cold, frosty mornings, our thanks go out to the kindly souls who stop for one just after he has missed the street car which always brings him downtown. It happens often. With shrieking brakes, they skid to a stop, wish one a cheery good morning and bid him to hop in.

It wasn't much of a cat; perhaps it would be better to call it a kitten, but it looked cold this morning as it nestled up to a mail box standard in a vain effort to keep warm. And it mewed at one so pitifully. Perhaps it was homeless, but it looked too clean for that. So, we will call it a stray that wandered far from home and could not find its way back.

New Castle got the edge of the predicted cold wave, over the week-end.

Taken To Asylum

Mrs. Jeannie McCall, 26, of Mine No. 5, near Mercer, has been found insane by a commission and taken to the state asylum at Warren, following the killing of her small son with a butcher knife in a school room. It developed that she had been struck on the head while working in a munitions factory in Scotland in 1918 and had suffered one lapse of memory since.

Two Executed At Rockview

One Pays Penalty For Wife Murder, Another For Killing Policeman

POLICEMAN'S FATHER VIEWS EXECUTION

By I. S. NEIMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 20.—While a blinding snowstorm chilled the death chamber, Frank Arnold and Frank Lockett, Philadelphia negroes, were electrocuted here early today for murder.

Promptly on the stroke of 7 o'clock, Frank Arnold was ushered into the bare room and strapped to the gaping chair. It required only two minutes to adjust the electrodes and seven minutes later he was pronounced dead by Dr. J. C. Newcombe, prison physician. Arnold had paid with his life for the murder of his wife Lottie on January 25, 1927.

Murdered Policeman.

Two minutes later Frank Lockett was ushered into the fatal chair, and at 7:17 a. m. he had expiated the murder of Luther Bell, Philadelphia policeman.

It required two "shots" of the current to take the lives of the two men. While the wind howled its mournful dirge the first charge was sent thru the body of Arnold at 7:02. The whine of the generators through his body could be heard above the wind, as the first 2,000 volts went through his body at 10 amperes. At 7:05 a second charge was sent through him by the veteran executioner, Robert Elliott.

Bradford Grade School Damaged By Fire Today

Early Morning Blaze Does Considerable Damage To School Building

(International News Service)

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 20.— The Fourth ward public school brick building was swept by fire early today and almost completely burned to the ground. The fire was discovered about 1:45 a. m., by Gus Gustafson who phone in the alarm to the Central fire department.

When the firemen arrived the whole interior of the building was a seething mass of flames. Smoke had first been noticed coming out of the upper story, and it is believed that the blaze had been smouldering for some time. It is thought to have caught from an overheated furnace.

Insurance on the building was increased last Saturday from $20,000 to $30,000 by schoolboard but this amount will not cover the loss. A large brick building and all equipment was destroyed.

School will be held tomorrow in Third ward school building where two four-hour shifts will be conducted.

Chief Edward Larkin of the fire department fell from the ladder during the fire and sprained his right ankle. He was taken to fire station and later to his home. Carl Goodman, a fireman was hit on the head by a falling two by four, but was not seriously hurt.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Civic organizations and society leaders were "tipped off" today that it would probably be useless to plan any large affairs in honor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who is scheduled to arrive here this evening in his old capacity of St. Louis-to-Chicago airmail pilot.

Lindbergh, it was said, has expressed a desire for simplicity, which was taken to mean that he will prefer to share the humble fare and modest sleeping quarters of the other mail flyers.

The famous aviator, who is scheduled to make one round trip over his old route, will leave St. Louis at 4:15 this afternoon. He is scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 7:15 p. m. His plane and five others, manned by his former buddies in the service, will be packed with mail.

The return trip will be made tomorrow.

It was just about this time last year that Lindbergh, then an obscure airmail pilot, quit his job to prepare for his epochal New York to Paris flight.

No Formal Reception

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20. — With the lid clapped on formal receptions Col Charles A. Lindbergh will land here late today with a load of airmail from St. Louis, pick up the thousands of letters awaiting him and hop off a few minutes after his arrival for Chicago via Peoria.

Springfield with myriad letters ready for the aerial globe trotter is preparing to fall in with Lindbergh's wishes and lines will be drawn at the flying field here to keep the crowds in check. A crowd on the field will keep Lindbergh from landing, he has announced, and if he does not come to earth one of the accompanying planes will pick up the mail.

Lndy is expected to reach this city about 5 o'clock.

BOGUS LORD IS GIVEN TEN YEARS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Stripped of his former nonchalance, Robert Whitman, alias Lord Beaverbrook, juggler of feminine hearts, today was sentenced to ten years in Sing Sing prison for grand larceny.

The courtroom was crowded with spectators, most of whom were women. Yet only one of Lord Beaverbrook's former loves was perceived among them. She was Mrs. Virginia Cameron Martin, Washington society matron, who married him in June, 1925, allegedly at an ultimate cost to her of $34,395.

Hickman-Hunt Jury Believed Near Selection

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—Taking of testimony in the trial of William Edward Hickman and his former accomplice, Welby Hunt, on charges of murdering C. Ivy Thoms, was expected to begin today, following announcement by Hickman's attorneys that the present tentative jury is acceptable to them.

Unless Hunt's attorneys exercise any more of their peremptory challenges, it is probable that witnesses will begin taking the stand today. After three days of questioning and cross-questioning of veniremen, final selection of the jury to sit in judgment on the youthful pair seemed definitely in prospect.

Already under sentence of death for the slaying of Marion Parker, an attitude of indifference toward the outcome of his second murder trial had been adopted by Hickman. He is reported to have told his attorneys that he has no fears of being hanged.

After the jury is sworn in, the Thoms trial, it is expected, will proceed speedily. With their efforts mainly centered on preparing briefs for submission to the California Supreme court as arguments in support of their appeal from the death sentence, Hickman's attorneys have in-

Anti-Fascist Faction In Detroit Oppose Mussolini Representative

THREE HUNDRED IN MOB DISTURBANCE

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—Fists flew, clubs met skulls, "Down With Mussolini," placards were broken over the heads of their bearers, women fainted and were trodden upon when police dispersed a crowd of 300 anti-Fascist who massed at the Union station today to greet, with hoots and jeers, the arrival of his excellency, Baron Giacomo De Martini, personal representative of Il Duce and Italian Ambassador to the United States.

Trouble began as Baron De Martini, surrounded by notables of Italian descent in the city, by department of justice agents, and police, came through the Forst street door of the station to the street.

"Down with Mussolini," went up the cry from three hundred throats. Men and women were in the anti-Fascist throng which was massed in the streets.

Police superintendent James Sprott ordered uniformed men, detectives from the homicide and black hand squads, mounted men, and officers in cars with the tops down to go into action.

Baron De Martini, in the Italian diplomatic service since 1891, looked on quietly, while the anti-Facist were routed.

Three Are Arrested

Several men gained the steps of the Fort street Presbyterian church, and continued their cries of "Down With Mussolini, Down with Facism," from there.

The last of the anti-Facisti finally disappeared, up alleys and down streets. Three were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace.

The prisoners included William Reynolds, 34, secretary of the International Labor Defense, one of the men carrying a "Down With Mussolini" banner who engaged in a fight with police, and Leono Boccerlon, 35.

Defense Rests In Gatlin Case

(International News Service)

WENTWORTH, N. C., Feb. 20.—The defense rested its case shortly after 10 o'clock today in the trial of Mrs Alma Petty Gatlin, 19, charged with the axe-murder of her father.

The defense, however has granted permission to place another witness on the stand later.

In beginning its rebuttal the state presented testimony, depicting incidents preceding the finding of Smith T. Pettey's axe-hacked body buried in the basement of the Petty home.

Allegheny College Youth Is Missing

NATIONWIDE HUNT STARTED BY PARENTS

(International News Service)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Feb. 20.—A nation-wide hunt was instituted today by the parents of Thomas Braun Moltrup, 20, Allegheny college student, missing almost a month.

The youth disappeared January 22 while enroute to college at Meadville, but his absence was not learned by his parents until last week when a friend of the family received a letter from a teacher in the college asking about the whereabouts of the boy. He had not returned to school for the start of the second semester.

Moltrup had spent a few days' vacation at home and the day he was to return to school his parents went to Battle Creek, Mich. It was on account of the absence of the family that the disappearance was not learned until last week.

As soon as Moltrup's family learned of his absence, Mr. and Mrs. Moltrup went to Meadville and started an investigation, resulting in the nationwide search on today.

The missing student is a cousin of Merle Moltrup, the air mail pilot and a brother of Frank Moltrup, superintendent of the Moltrup Steel Products Co., of which his father is president.

Machine Skids On Grant Street And Finally Overturns In Yard

SIX PERSONS IN CAR IN ACCIDENT

Three persons were more or less severely injured early Sunday morning when the automobile of Glenn Lutz, 835 Beckford street, was upset and wrecked in front of 424 Grant street. Three other occupants of the car were fortunate in escaping with minor bruises and cuts and able to go to their homes. The accident occurred, according to the report made to the police, when another car going in the opposite direction swerved towards the Lutz car and Mr. Lutz pulled to the right, putting on his brakes, which caused the car to skid on the snow-covered street and into the tree where it was wrecked.

The Injured.

Glenn Lutz, 29, 835 Beckford street, driver and owner of the car. Feared that he may have sustained a fracture of the skull in serious blow and cut just above the nose. Also other cuts and bruises of the body and arms. X-ray taken this morning in the New Castle hospital to determine full extent of injuries.

Campbell Says He Has No Hope Of Escaping Chair

Will Be Arraigned Today On Charge Of Beating Wife To Death

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Cecil Clyde Campbell, gray-haired Lothario who once affected the title of major, today turned into the short road that he believes will lead to the Sing Sing death house.

He was arraigned in general sessions court on a charge of having bludgeoned his wife to death with a hammer in a suicide pact that worked only one way because, he says, he lost his nerve.

"I have no hope of escaping the chair," he said. "I have no extenuation and no money to fight for my life. In fact, I don't believe it's worth fighting for."

Two weeks ago Campbell's wife, Mary McLean Campbell, was found dead in a room in the Grand hotel. He was arrested in Philadelphia where police say he confessed.

Pittsburgh To Be First Visit Of Coal Probers

Senate Strike Probe Committee To Leave Wednesday For Pittsburgh

LEADING OPERATORS SAY PROBE WELCOME

Coal Strike Now In Eleventh Month; Was Intugurated In April, 1927

By KENNETH CLARK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—A full and impartial investigation of actual conditions in the strike-torn Pennsylvania soft coal fields was promised today by Senator Gooding (R) of Idaho, chairman of the special senate coal committee.

Leaves Wednesday

The committee leaves here Wednesday for Pittsburgh to inspect mining camps in that region. Side trips probably will be made to West Virginia and Central Pennsylvania fields but the definite itinerary has not been mapped out. The investigation trip is not expected to require more than a week as the committee is anxious to return to Washington to begin hearing witnesses on general conditions in the Bituminous industry.

"We are not going to the mines with any preconceived ideas or with any axe to grind," said Gooding. "We want to see conditions as they actually exist in order to submit a fair report to the senate."

The inquiry was ordered as result of the senate's adoption of a resolution by Senator Johnson (R) of California. He charged that conditions in the soft coal fields are "deplorable," with thousands of miners and their families facing starvation and untold hardships because of eviction from company houses.

The committee has been authorized to swear witnesses and take testimony at the mining camps and an official stenographer will be taken along. Only those witnesses who are physically unable to make a trip to Washington will be examined.

Welcome Inquiry

Leading operators reported to the committee today they welcomed the first hand inquiry. The Pittsburgh Coal Company, largest non-union soft coal company in the country, declared its camps and facilities would be open for fullest inspection. The company has been operating with non-union labor since 1925.

Jas. McConnell Dies On Sunday

WIDELY KNOWN IN ENTIRE DISTRICT

James McConnell, aged 73, owner of McConnell's Mills on the Slippery Rock Creek, one of the most picturesque and attractive districts in this section of the country and a recreation center of approximately half a century for the people in this section, died Sunday morning at one o'clock in his home after an illness. He had been in declining health for several years.

Known To Thousands

An outstanding citizen of this district, he will be missed not only by those residing in his immediate vicinity, but his passing will cause regret among untold thousands of people of Western Pennsylvania, who for several generations, have made McConnell's Mills their summer recreation headquarters and have come to know and love the man, who preserved and maintained the district intact and in all its picturesque natural beauty.

A man of exemplary habits and pronounced Christian activity, yet all his life, Mr. McConnell was interested in those outdoor activities such as baseball, swimming and the like and was the equal of any in outdoor activities until the past few years, when failing health prevented his accustomed activity although not dimming his interest in purely recreational athletic activity. Among his boyhood friends was Charles Bennett, noted baseball player.

He always maintained an active interest in the political affairs of his country, being a Republican, of independent characteristics. He never sought political perferment but did take an active part at all times.

Leading Church Member

A member of the Presbyterian church of Portersville since his marriage in 1879, he was always most active in the conduct of its affairs. He was an elder for many years and also superintendent of the Sunday School of the church for quite a number of years. He and his wife were always most active in the church and Sunday School affairs of the church.

Mr. McConnell was born March 20, 1855 at Neshannock Falls, the son of Captain Thomas and Mrs. Jane McCombs McConnell. The family moved to Slippery Rock Creek in 1875, purchasing the flouring mill, which became known and is now known as McConnell's Mills. He with his father and his uncle James McConnell were in active charge of the

COLD WAVE HANGS ON IN DISTRICT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 20— Western Pennsylvania must wait a few more days before escaping from the grip of the cold wave.

Instead of vanishing as expected, the cold wave took a fresh hold on the region west of the Alleghenies today and the weather bureau predicted a drop to 10 degrees tonight.

The forecaster said cold weather would prevail for a day or two. Several inches of snow are on the ground, but all important roads are open.

Tomorrow will see increasing cloudiness and a slight warming up, if the weather maps are correct. The temperature here hovered near the 20-degree mark, six degrees lower than yesterday.

Arthur Mometer

There's arguments pro and arguments con, and the words and the phrases keep piling right on, as to whether the Colonel should stay in the air, or whether perchance he should take proper care. Now I don't know the Colonel, except what I read and I can't say I know as to just what he needs, but whether he flies or he stays on the land, is a question on which I will not take a stand for it seems that a lad who could span all that sea, needs little advice from folks such as me. If he wants to keep flying, well let him keep on, let him fly till the Spirit of St. Louis is gone, and then get another and fly till he's old, let him heap up the honors and medals and gold. But for me, I don't care to suggest what he do, that's a game that he knows, weather's cool, twenty-two.

Security Board Of League Is In Session Today

Begin Series Of Meetings With England Pledged To Arbitration

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETS MARCH 15

(International News Service)

GENEVA, Feb. 20.—The security commission of the League of Nations began a series of meetings here today with England pledged to sign arbitration treaties with all nations with which a common basis of understanding may be reached.

"We are willing to sign arbitration pacts with any nation and give moral support to the prospective signatories," said Lord Cushendun, chief of the British delegation. He added, however, that Britain considers such treaties as having limited scope "just as the United States does."

Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia, president of the security commission, in opening the meeting, said that the League of Nations could do no more than it already has done to further the security of the member nations. This statement put an end to reports that the league covenant might be amended in an effort to give further protection to international borders.

President Benes recommended regional pacts between the interested nations as the best means of giving the desired security. This recommendation already had been published in the report of the commission's sub-committee which was made public a week ago.

The series of meetings opening today are a prelude to the next conference of the league preparatory to disarmament commission, which will meet on March 5.

The league council will meet March 15.

mill at that time and a very successful business was established.

With the passing of the others, Mr. McConnell continued the business, doing a very large business until within the last few years, when failing health made it impossible for him to engage in it to the extent of his earlier years.

On October 16, 1879, he was united in marriage to Jennie Walker Stewart, of Portersville, who survives him.

Mr. McConnell is the last of his immediate family. Besides his wife, he leaves a number of nieces and nephews, among whom are Finley McConnell, general superintendent of the Bellaire-Mingo steel plants of the Carnegie Steel company, Thomas McConnell at present in New York and for many years connected with the Y. M. C. A. work in China, and T. H. Hartman, of this city.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, February 21, 1928 at 2 p. m. in the United Presbyterian church of Portersville. The services are being held at that church on account of the bad condition of the roads in the vicinity of the McConnell Home and also the fact that the Presbyterian church of Portersville with which he was affiliated is undergoing repairs. Interment will be made in the Presbyterian cemetery at Portersville.

Italian Troopers Occupy Jofra For First Time In Thirteen Years

(International News Service)

TRIPOLI, Feb. 20.—Several hundred native troops were killed or wounded in an engagement which culminated today with the occupation of Oasis Jofra by Italian cavalry.

About 800 rifles were captured by the Italian troops who were led by the Meharists of the Duke of Puglie.

Jofra was taken after General Grazioli had seized Socna, Hon, and other small towns in the vicinity ruled by Abdel Sefennasser.

Forestry Chief To Resign On May 1

William B. Greeley To Accept Position With West Coast Lumber Concern

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.— Col. William B. Greeley, chief of the U. S. Forest Service, will resign May 1, to accept a position with the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association, Secretary of Agriculture Jardine announced today. He will be succeeded by Maj. R. Y. Stuart, now assistant forester.

"It would be impossible to overstate the high character of the service that has been rendered by Col. Greeley to the welfare of the American people," Jardine said.

Greeley has been with the Forest service since 1904 and has been chief for eight years.

During the World war he had charge of the recruiting of Forestry troops for the A. E. F. and later was sent to France, becoming chief of the Forestry section of the American army.

Stuart has had a wide range of forestry experience and education. He served in France with the 10th Engineers and was for a time deputy Forestry Commissioner of Pennsylvania.

To Condemn Land And Houses For New Wampum Bridge

County commissioners with a photographer went to Wampum today to have pictures taken of houses that are to be taken as a result of the building of the new bridge and viaduct. There are about ten properties which it will be necessary to take in whole or in part.

It is said that the commissioners have been unable to arrive at any satisfactory terms for the purchase of these properties and that they will likely have to be taken by condemnation proceedings.

The pictures to be taken are to be used to show those interested the nature of the buildings to be taken.

Lives Eleven Months With Bullet In Brain

(International News Service)

URBANA, O., Feb. 20.—After living 11 months with a bullet lodged in her brain, Mrs. Bessie Gillespie, 38 of Columbus, died today at the home of her parents. She had been unconscious for the past week.

When the station demonstration subsided, Baron De Martini was escorted, under heavy guard, to the Book-Caddilac hotel, where he was visited by Mayor John C. Lodge. During the visit, several hundred police were stationed at entrances to the hotel.

These officers were augmented, shortly afterward, by others when his excellency was escorted to the city hall to repay the mayor's call. The same guard was in readiness to escort the Ambassador to Dearborn for lunch with Edsel Ford.

While the weather was not too cold, yet there was an icy wind that swept over the city now and then that felt a semblance of an old time blizzard, like zero, and intermittently there was Temperature was around 8 above, Sunday morning.

For the next few weeks patrons of the New Castle postoffice will think they have stepped into a poultry house as they pass into the lobby of the postoffice and hear the "yap-yap" of hundreds of baby chicks which are these days being shipped by parcel post. Baby chicks, a day old, are accepted for shipment by parcel post if they can reach their destination before they are 72 hours old. And while in transit the postal employes are not allowed to give the little fluffy things a drop of water or a bit of food. For nature has provided for the nourishment of the chicks by the amount of nourishment in what was the yolk of the egg before the chick was hatched. And there is enough nourishment in this yolk to furnish the chick with food and water until it is 72 hours old.

CAR OVERTURNS; THREE ARE HURT

Castle hospital. Condition satisfactory.

There were six persons in the party being conveyed home from Youngstown in the Lutz car when the accident occurred Sunday morning about 1:35 o'clock. They were those already designated as being injured and in the New Castle hospital, and Walter Rheaume, husband of one of the injured women; Miss Jessie Davidson of Wampum and Lynn Gilkey. The latter occupants of the car, although somewhat shaken in the upset, were able to return to their respective homes.

Enroute home, according to Walter Rheaume, some of the cross pieces of the chains on the wheels of the car becoming broken, the chains were removed on the Youngstown road, after which they proceeded on their way home.

Police and Ambulance Arrive.

About 1:35 a. m. police here were advised that there had been a bad wreck at 424 Grant street, a car being overturned in the front yard of that number and several persons severely injured.

Officers Samuels and Kennedy responded with the police car, while three ambulances were also summoned and arrived on the scene about the same time as the police. The injured persons were removed from the wreckage and hurried to the New Castle hospital while the others were removed to their homes.

Officers Samuels, Kennedy and Richards visited the hospital later but found the injured persons in no condition to give statements.

According to those who visited the scene, it was one of the most complete and unusual automobile wrecks that has occurred here in some time.

Car Overturns.

The car, after skidding toward the south side of Grant street, had been temporarily righted, then careened toward the north side of the street, hit and knocked down a no parking sign, then went on up over the sidewalk, uprooting a tree fully a foot or more in diameter, throwing it root and all into the front yard of 424 Grant street. The car went up on the overturned tree and upset.

According to the statement of those in the car, Mr. Lutz was driving the machine and at a point just beyond the Erie R. R. crossing a car coming in the opposite direction swerved toward the path of their machine. Mr. Lutz pulled to his right and put on his brakes. The chains being off, the car skidded to the left and struck the no parking sign and tree and upset.

John Guilfoyle, 518 West Washington street, crossing watchman of the Erie railroad, and Frank Mitchell of 617 North Cedar street both witnessed the accident and informed the police that the Lutz car was traveling at a considerable rate of speed when the accident occurred.

It is expected that all the victims of the accident will recover. The car was a complete wreck.

this time 1,500 volts at six amperes were required.

Lockett required slightly more current. Strapped in the chair at 7:09, the first charge of 2,000 volts at 12 amperes was sent hurtling through his form at 7:11. A second charge of 1,500 volts at seven amperes was sent through him at 7:16, and a minute later he was pronounced dead.

Sees Son's Slayer Die.

Robert J. Bell, gray haired father of Luther Bell, the slain policeman; Edward J. Bell, a brother, and Thomas Lavin, a brother-in-law, were among the official witnesses to the executions today.

The aged father sat directly opposite the death chair as Lockett was strapped to its massive arms and the electrodes adjusted. He showed no emotion as he saw his son's slayer pay with his life for the patrolman's death.

"I believe Lockett died a better death than my brother," was the comment of Edward J. Bell, the brother, as he recalled the days spent in the hospital when the policeman's life hung in the balance.

Lavin had nothing to say.

The two negroes were attended by the Rev. Augustus T. Wilkie, negro pastor of Norwood, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb, just before entering the death chamber.

Both men were unemotional, and went to their death stoically. Neither had a final word or message.

England's row about the prayer book might be worse. Suppose they were trying to change the choir leader.

New York Firemen Are Kept Busy, Two Spectacular Blazes

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—New York firemen were kept on the run last night and early today by two spectacular blazes. One fire destroyed a $550,000 apartment house under construction in the Bronx, and the other swept through a tenement house on the upper east side. In the latter blaze 21 persons in their night clothing were led to safety down ladders and over roofs by firemen.

The apartment house fire, which was brought under control early today after it had raged for three hours, threatening to destroy another apartment next door. Sixteen families were driven to the street.

THE BEGGAR

She: "They say her wedding beggared description."
He: "More than that."
She: "Indeed?"
He: "Yes, it beggared her father."

IT'S TUESDAY NIGHT
Because so many people didn't get in to the last Discovery Night in the Capitol Theatre and because a number of entrants were missed, the Capitol Theatre will hold another Discovery Night Tuesday evening, which is tomorrow.
If you have an act you want to try out, if you can dance, sing, or put on a monologue, leave your name in the Capitol Theatre box office and try it out on Tuesday night.
The Discovery Night this week is being held on Tuesday instead of Friday night because of the "Vanities and Fashions of 1928" which will play the Capitol Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Atlantic City Beauties For Capitol Theatre

A little bit of Atlantic City's Bathing Beauty Pageant will be in the Capitol Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday night of this week. Six of the pulchritinous young women who competed for the title of Miss America last August on the Boardwalk at Atlantic City will be here for the three days mentioned and New Castle beauty lovers are due for a real treat.

Featuring the girls will be Miss Ohio, Miss Cleveland, and Miss Washington, D. C., along with three other beauties. In addition the act has some singers and dancers, and the act in its entirety will last thirty minutes.

A run way will be built out over the orchestra pit at the Capitol and a Spring Style Show will be presented in addition to the regular act. The act has cost the Capitol plenty of money but the management believes it is worth it.

Two other vaudeville acts will play the Capitol at the same time and the picture will be "The 13th Juror" starring Anna Q. Nilsson and Francis X. Bushman.

PENNSYLVANIA DAY

EXPERIENCE has proved that no occasion or anniversary is observed appropriately when it is declared a holiday. So the Pennsylvania legislature was doubly wise when it set aside one day of the year for observance of Pennsylvania Day and made it plain that the public schools were to celebrate it "in session."

March 4 or the nearest school day, which is March 2 this year, is Pennsylvania Day and will be observed this year for the first time. On that day school children throughout the state will learn something about the history of their state and its political and economic position, both nationally and internationally.

Every fact relating to Pennsylvania could be imported to the school children without setting apart a day for the purpose, but the designation of a Pennsylvania Day affords greater assurance that these facts will be imparted. It is an effective way to jog the teacher who has neglected this important department of history.

Governor Fisher's proclamation designating March 2 as Pennsylvania Day this year makes specific mention of William Penn, Benjamin Franklin and the industrial development and achievements of this commonwealth. He might have named thousands of great men and women and could have written volumes on the history of the state. To Pennsylvania the appellation "Keystone State" is most applicable.

The school boys and girls of today will be the builders of tomorrow, and they will build better if equipped with a deep appreciation of past achievements of their state and its citizens. Theirs is the difficult role of the son of the great man.

UNDELIVERED MAIL

THE postoffice department at Washington has been trying for years to educate the users of the mails to write legibly, address carefully and place names of streets and numbers of houses on their communications, but without appreciably reducing the number of pieces of mail matter that find their way to the dead-letter office.

While trying to impress users of the mails with the need for care in packing and addressing, the department recognizes that much of the vast tonnage of dead-letter mail might be delivered if more care were exercised by postal employes. Sometimes it seems the civil service clerk doesn't use as much ingenuity and patience in deciphering blind addresses as he did in the days when John Wanamaker was postmaster general.

How many postal employes in the dead-letter office or in the local post offices could safely deliver to an obscure person in Oswego, Oswego county, N. Y., a letter addressed to "Horsewigger, Horsewigger county, America?" It was done under the administration of Wanamaker by a woman employe who had the happy thought that the h's and r's were superfluous.

Let it be remembered, however, that the volume of mail has multiplied many times since Wanamaker's day and that the difficulties of making deliveries have increased with it. Investigation might even disclose that the percentage of mail that reaches the dead-letter office now is smaller than ever, although troubles of the postal service keep pace with increasing population.

LOOKS MUCH LIKE POLITICS

INVESTIGATIONS are among the senate's favorite indoor sports. But the desire of Senator Walsh of Montana to lead an attack upon the power companies of the United States has been blocked by the senate and the whole question has been referred to the Federal Trade Commission, where it belongs.

Party lines were broken in the contest.

Senator Bruce of Maryland, a Democrat, criticised what he called the "investigation mania." He said that no less than eighteen inquiries of one sort or another are either proposed or under way.

The suspicion that there is more politics than anything else in most of them is natural in a presidential year. Apart from this consideration, some of them are mischievous to a degree, having for their chief object, apparently, the embarrassment of the administration.

WEALTH IN THE MAKING

BY THE real barometer of prosperity—production—Pennsylvania was prosperous in 1927. By the same barometer, Pennsylvania prosperity last year was on a higher scale than Pennsylvania prosperity in 1926.

Products from the mills and factories of this state last year sold for $7,789,603,200, an increase of $2,000,000 over the value of 1926 output. Metals and metal products came first with a value of over three billions, and textiles followed with more than a billion and a hundred million. These industrial plants employed five and a half billions in capital and over one and one-half millions of people, whose wages and salaries exceeded two billion dollars.

America is the greatest industrial country in the world, and Pennsylvania is the greatest industrial state in America. The foreign traveler comes to Pennsylvania to see modern industry at its highest stage of development. Here he can get a cross section of the industrial, commercial, natural and cultural wealth of the United States, the richest nation in the world.

One can tell a story of industrial Pennsylvania that is more romantic than any fiction, and paint a picture more thrilling than many masterpieces of art. Upon entering one of the mammoth mills that hedge in the state's waterways and railroads, one experiences a thrill something akin to that felt by the poet Keats when he first looked into Chapman's Homer.

California and Florida booms come and go but Pennsylvania's prosperity is never-ending.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:42. Sun rises tomorrow 6:45.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., appears to be a regular fellow. He's always extending a helping hand to the more unfortunate. He will spend a million dollars for roads and tunnels on his estate in Pocantico Hills, to make work for jobless men. It will be money well spent.

The Westphalian City of Hagen gives a celebration in honor of the arrival of its 100,000th citizen a little baby girl. That city has nothing on us. We'll give five dollars to the parents of any boy or girl born in Lawrence county on March 12, our birthday anniversary.

Eddie Foy famous comedian, is no more. Seventy-one years of age he was on his farewell tour, which started last August. An entertainer for almost 60 years, he carried on to the end in his chosen profession. An exponet of the gospel of happiness he did the world much good by his stay on earth.

A woman should not have to wait until some man asks her to marry him but should have the same right to look for a husband as a man has to look for a wife says the president of Elmira college, the oldest college for women in the United States. If that ever comes true there'll be a lot of bachelors.

We note that cutting of taxes seems to be a favorite diversion in many countries and some cities. We note that this latest style has not yet reached this district.

There's been lots of good news lately for the people of New Castle. We hope they will appreciate the fact to the fullest extent. Increased activities in many of the industrial plants of the city means more money in circulation and better business.

That street guessing contest is over, the prizes have been awarded and Stan Treser is the most widely known and sought after man in the city today. It's a safe bet that there are more people familiar with the streets of the city than at any previous time in the city's history.

Ambulance chasers are responsible for much of the clogging up of the present day courts. Sticking their nose into other's business, they are constantly adding to the number of damage suits in court. They increase the high cost of living and get little for their clients.

The assessors office has been making a little mistake, we read in the assessmeit of certain property of the Pennsylvania Engineering works Actually assessed $4,200 the concern last year and the two years previous taxes being paid on an assessed valuaton of $42,000. Fortunately this does not often occur.

It has been suggested that one of the best ways to advertise the city is to paint the name of the city on some of the taller buildings so that they might attract attention to aviators. Anything that will place this city before the public should be encouraged.

Daniel Willard president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad has been invited to be the speaker at the next meeting of the members of the Chamber of Commerce. He's worthwhile and might have something to tell that would indicate something of benefit to the city.

We see that the police are enforcing that ordinance prohibitting the parking of cars on the streets of this city to save garage rent. A few towing bills will mean fewer cars parked in this manner.

The February prize for optimism goes to the enthusiast who says three of every five American adults know how to play bridge.

Begins to look as though the city council had better consider with great care before it disposes of the municipal conduit. This conduit has meant much to this city in spite of the actual small returns. It may mean much more in the future.

Leave it to Mayor Thompson of Chicago. Anything he doesn't like, don't go in that city while he is mayor. He's just discovered that a herd of 300 lions which to him at least symbolize England, have wandered into the architecture of the schools of Chicago. One hundred of the beasts have already gained a foothold and cannot be dislodged, but there are two hundred of 'em, mind you, which he has chased away. The architects have been compelled to substitute some American. We'll admit he's a little tempermental but we can't deny that he believes in America for Americans.

If she's fifty and a gossip, she is just trying to get a vicarous kick out of sin.

Great Britain would gladly, said a spokesman of that nation the other day, do away with submarines as instruments of warfare, if Uncle Samuel would just convert other nations to the same idea. Can't see how they get that way. They ought to try a little pursuasion on the other nations themselves. They have the most to gain.

Commonsense is best for child training, said experts at the Child Study conference in Chicago. That's just what we's always contended It's strange how those experts came to the same conclusion.

The Democratic politicians, particularly those from New York are apparently just wintering in St. Petersburg, Fla. It's evident that they're hunting something else than a warmer climate in the sunny south. Those southern states have a lot to say about whose leader of the Democratic party in presidential elections

It's unfortunate for the Germans that, although enjoying a Republican form of government, they have so many parties in their political lineup, whose views do not coincide in the matter of government. Two political parties are sufficient, we have found and no matter which is in power, business of the government is usually carried on without the interruptions so prevalent in Germany.

The serving of liquor on Sunday morning does not meet with the approval of Sir Persy Woodhouse, chairman of the Manchester England, licensing sessions. Now that's pretty good for a man in a country that still serves its people with liquors. "You must not serve out of hours, even to take the taste of the sermon out of the people's mouths" he said in reproving a license holder convicted of selling liquor out of hours on a cold Sunday morning. He must never have been very cold.

We are an idealistic people, and the only real dollar chasers we have are speed cops.

The right of free speech in England does not permit of heckling speakers of meetings held in the interest of a political opponent. Can't see other than that they are right. Every person should have the right to express a legitimate opinion even if it does not agree with the others.

Syracuse, N. Y., has among its citizens, Mrs. Charles D. B. Mills who recently observed her 102nd birthday. That's nothing to brang about for we have our Mrs. Lucy Morrison who is now past 100 years of age. In fact there are but few cities that have anything on us if we would just believe more in ourselves.

Illness is good for $1,500,000 a day in fees for the physicians of the United States, we are told. Two percent of the population is always incapacitated by illness and half the population is suffering from one kind or other of an ailment. Prevention is the only medium of overcoming this high cost of sickness 'tis said.

We note that Florida has sunshine, oranges and land, also bank failures. There must be a shortage of tourists in that fair state this year. Can't see how there would be any bank failures there if there were plenty of tourists.

If he doesn't hire an alienist that is proof he is crazy.

Still it might be possible to get several more sardines in a can by hanging them on straps.

In modernizing Shakespeare it must be shown that the Shrew to be tamed has no opportunity to procure a sash weight.

What's the use? If you pour ashes on a slick place you're an old crab who spoils a good place to slide.

The new French uniform will encourage poetry. Underneath the marble slab lies the body who wore the drab.

About the only way to be neutral is to buy a car costing over a thousand.

But think how frantic Solomon would have been with a thousand shrieks of advice coming from the back seat.

AMERICANISM: "What? You need another story to fill the first page? Well put in something about Will Rogers."

REAL BEAUTY

By Idah McGlone Gibson

If there were more attention paid to the awakening and developing of psychic charm there would be less need of artificial aids to beauty. The soul can supply all attributes which will give the face that kindly expression that often glorifies physical beauty.

It is one cosmetic the application of which never fails. One might suggest that the first agent for internal application is charitableness toward one's fellows.

If kindliness is used often and liberally it will soften and beautify the expression of any face as much as it broadens the soul. The most beautiful women I have ever known are those who have forgotten self and whose sense of humor keeps them from worrying over trivial things.

If one would only have a sunshine club of one's own and attend it religiously every morning at his awakening it would do more toward rounding out the hollows and brightening the eyes than anything I know.

Enhancing the beauty of the face is a subject of deep interest with every human being, man or woman, but rarely is there anything done which will enhance the charm of the spirit although this gives the high light to any regularity of feature and delicacy of skin which alone makes a face perfect.

There is trinity in all beauty. The physical, the mental and the moral condition must always enter into its reality.

Sometimes one gets a spurious imitation composed of regular features and the contents of one's vanity box but no one is deceived by it except the person who hopes to "get by" with the imitation.

Memo: It behooves a woman to devote a certain part of each day to the care of her body, the nurturing of her mind, and the adorning of her soul if she would merit the adjective of beautiful.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE

SAN SIMEON, Cal., Feb. 18.—"To me the moon does not look as you have painted it," said the lady to 'Whistler'. "No," said he, "don't you wish it did?"

Even 'Whistler's' imagination could not invent such a sky as you saw looking over the Pacific, 1,000 feet up the hill of the "enchanted summit".

A curtain of stars drops down almost to the ocean's edge, as though separating America from Asia. And below the stars, right on the water, hangs a small, sickle-shaped moon, blood red.

"I've seen all kinds of moons, driving at night," said "Whistle" McAninch, who drives for Steve Zegar, "but that's a new one on me."

He drives carefully in the moonlight-starlight "because there are 50 bison in this field and I'm not supposed to hit one."

One of the 50, shedding and shaggy, crosses the road and bounds up a steep bank as agile as a rabbit. With unlimited pasture, water and rock salt, no Indians to annoy them or wolves to bite their calves, these are happy bison, convinced, probably, that they are the favored herd of the Great Spirit.

At San Luis Obispo, 52 miles from here, where the Southern Pacific "Lark" leaves you at two a. m., a tired man is drinking water, at the wheel of a Pontiac.

"That's Buck Hoover," says McAninch. "You'll notice that he's chained to his wheel."

He is indeed, having undertaken to break world records by driving one hundred hours without food or sleep —water allowed.

"He can stand what no other man can stand, because his heart beats faster than any other heart," says McAninch, hero worshiper. "He has been driving 48 hours now and I think he'll make it."

The American Legion, keeping track of his 100-hour "stunt", will raffle off the Pontiac at a dance later. Buck will share the excess profits, also Richfield oil and Firestone tires used in the 100-hour grind will contribute something.

So Buck Hoover will get perhaps $1,000 for taking 10 years off his life. A modern Ixion, chained to the wheel, his courage and ambition to excel, are strangely used.

But chauffeurs and brakemen, and the tall girl with yellow hair who answers "you bet" when you ask for coffee, all admire him. He'll get more praise than he would have got had a piece of shrapnel split his head while he drove a war ambulance.

Buck Hoover and the Pacific at night make outside news seem trivial, but it must be mentioned.

American nations at Havana agree to "outlaw aggressive war on these American continents". What is aggressive war is the other nations "war", of course. No modern nation ever fought without calling it "self-defense".

"But, sir, I'm only a waiter."

"I don't see that that makes any difference," says the Prince, shaking hands over again.

The tyrant was annoyed when Solon told him there could be good government, "only when kings become philosophers, or philosophers become kings". The young Prince leaves philosophy to professors.

But he knows that royalties achieve permanency by becoming democratic.

Lindbergh returns from his exhausting trip, worn and visibly aged. What he does is Lindbergh's business —even should he decide to continue risks and "stunts" until he kills himself.

But the public hopes he will realize that his value to America does not consist in "stunt" flying.

Napoleon was not ashamed to promise the French people that he would not expose himself to danger, or go too near the front.

At the bridge of Arcola and elsewhere he had proved his reckless courage, as Lindbergh proved his in that ocean flight.

Our lawmakers have about decided that the way to enforce prohibition is to put real and deadly poison in all alcohol sold legally. That sounds more like the Borgias than like your loving Uncle Sam. Why not leave alcohol poisoning to bootleggers? They do it very nicely.

Los Angeles police authorities will fine every policeman that fails to make fewer than three arrests in so many days.

In the good old English days of Henry the Second, under the law of the "hundreds", somebody had to be responsible for every murder. When a corpse was found within the territory of a certain "hundred", the hundred good men and true had to produce the murderer or pay heavy fines. They usually produced a murderer. The Los Angeles police will produce their three arrests as ordered.

THE STARS IN THEIR COURSES

On one occasion it was said of a general of old that "the stars in their courses fought against Sisera."

That is to say, he had pitted himself against the universe, he had bucked the cosmic laws, and in the end they were sure to win out against him.

Whoever commits a crime has set himself against the universe. That universe operates according to certain laws and these laws are relentless in their operation. A wise man is one who learns how to work with them and a fool is one who thinks he can succeed against them.

This was illustrated the other day in the case of Hickman, who is guilty of the most depraved and outrageous crime that we can recall in the history of the country.

He kidnapped a little girl and promised to return her upon the payment of fifteen hundred dollars. He did return her, but it was her dismembered body. He had cruelly slain and mutilated her for no reason except for the gratification of an unnatural and cruel lust for blood.

When he attempted to get away all organized society co-operated against him. The newspapers, the telegraph, the radio, besides every man and woman in the region were alert to catch him. In the end he was nabbed in a distant city.

No man knows what laws he sets in operation when he attempts to defy the universe. No man is able to throw a monkey wrench into his machinery any more than he is able to stop the force of gravitation or the procession of the equinoxes.

We may scoff at God and the notions of His omnipotence, but the law remains, "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

Nature is intent upon her own plans, deliberately and orderly, and whatsoever or whosoever defies them is eliminated sooner or later.

The simplest peasant who obeys his conscience and resolutely sticks to doing right is wiser than the most learned sage who thinks he can do wrong and succeed.

The root reason is that the man who is right is linked up with God and the universe. The stars in their courses are his friends, but the man who does wrong never knows from whence some unlooked-for enemy shall come forward and undo him.

In the late war Germany was undoubtedly prepared to conquer France, but she was not prepared to conquer the combined forces of the civilized world, who rushed to France's defense.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ONE BITE—ONE SCRATCH.

Cats are now the recipient of long-delayed justice.

In California County Court, Judge Yankwich ruled that they are entitled to one scratch per cat.

For centuries it has been an established principal of law that every dog is entitled to one bite, but never before, as far as sages and bundits can recall, has the beneficence of this ruling been extended to tabby.

Edith Adsleard sued B. R. Patterson, South Pasadena druggist, for $5100 damages. She related in her complaint that Patterson's official drug store cat had scratched her viciously and without reason. She was just sitting at his soda fountain, sipping through a straw, when the cat walked up to her and jagged her, she complained.

Patterson demurred to the complaint on the ground that it did not state a sufficient case of action. In argument, counsel cited the rule on dogs. The owner of a dog is responsible for its biting, only if he knows his dog to be given to biting, and cannot be presumed to know unless someone previously has been bitten.

Judge Yankwich considered this matter thoughtfully.

"Yes, I believe it is a truth that seems never before to have been brought to light, that a cat is privileged to the extent of one scratch," he ruled. "No allegation has been made in this complaint that this cat ever indulged in any prior scratching. Thus no cause of action is recited, and the demurrer will be sustained. Ten days to amend the complaint."

Which means that Miss Adslear, if she wants to continue her suit, will have to file an amended complaint and assume the burden of proving Patterson's cat was a notorious and confirmed scratcher.

"Next Case" calls the Clerk.

ANOTHER DAY

Another day to toil and play
Another day with life to cope!
And whether skies be blue or gray
Another day to dream and hope.

Another day and none can say
What shall be learned before it ends.
What need shall call us from the way
To stop with strangers or with friends.

Another day and down the way
Sweet laughter shall be ours to share
Or grief or hurt or trouble may
Add to the burden we must bear.

Another day! and oh, I pray
That when shall chime the midnight bell,
I may look back upon the day
And have no deep regrets to tell.

USE FOR CRIMINALS

I am opposed to capital punishment. For ever so many reasons. Not all of my reasons coincide with the reasons cited by the societies that are opposing capital punishment in the state legislatures.

Capital punishment is a woeful waste, and, so far as I can see, it accomplishes only one result. It does get rid of the convicted criminal who is subjected to it.

I favor using criminals who deserve death in a way that may really repay society for the damage done by the criminal. A murderer owes society a debt. He has taken away a social unit when he has killed. He can not make good the debt by submitting to death himself. The state only increases the deficit when it kills the murderer.

Let the murderer be sentenced to life imprisonment, with the special provision that he be available at all times for medical experimentation.

Let the American Medical Society, the Rockefeller Institute, and other beneficient organizations of scientific men take charge of the murders, and use them, within the prisons, for such tests and experiments as they think may serve to save other human lives.

I believe this to be a thoroughly practical and humanitarian proposal, and I also believe that there is not the slightest chance that it will be taken seriously for at least a century. We are too hypocritical, as a race, to admit to ourselves that we could properly compel even the most depraved criminal to submit to experimentation which might save millions of lives without harming him at all. But we are willing to consent to the most brutal kind of official killing of criminals.

How could we safeguard the rights of the murderer? How could we be sure that the doctors wouldn't abuse him, poison him, or even cause his death?

The answer is that murderers, duly convicted, have no rights that the state is bound to respect. Else the state wouldn't be killing them, as it does, in so many cases, now.

One trusts a doctor, perforce, a good deal. I would be willing to trust a medical association or a philanthropic institution, under proper supervision, with the fate and welfare of the murders in a state prison.

Congressman Porter To Introduce Measure For Erecting Narcotic Farms

WOULD RELIEVE COURT CONGESTION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Congressman Stephen G. Porter (R) of Pennsylvania, planned to introduce today a bill to establish two federal narcotic farms for the cure and treatment of persons now confined in federal prison who are addicted to the use of habit-forming drugs.

The bill provides that addicts who are not federal prisoners may be admitted if facilities are available and permits the states to board addicts who have violated their laws, at a federal narcotic farm.

"My proposal is in line with President Coolidge's suggestion that the federal government give more attention to its penal problems," said Congressman Porter.

"The establishment of narcotic farms would, in my opinion, go a long way toward relieving the congestion in federal prisons, but would also operate to reduce crime, since nearly 50 per cent of the men who leave prison return to their former activities.

"How is it possible for an addict to go straight if he is turned out of prison with a gnawing appetite for a drug which costs from $6 to $8 a day and with no money to buy it? We ought to get to the seat of the infection and remove the cause for crime."

LEVINE'S FLIGHT AGAIN DELAYED

(International News Service)

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Tentative plans to start a long distance or duration flight were definitely cancelled early today by Wilmer Stutz, pilot of Charles A. Levine's Bellanca monoplane, Columbia, after Stutz had examined the runway at Roosevelt Field and found that it would not be in condition to support the weight of the plane with a heavy load of fuel.

No definite information in regard to Levine's plans was obtainable here. Stutz said that a non-stop flight to Havana and an attempt to break the world's duration record were both active possibilities, and that if the flight to Havana were made Miss Mabel Boll, so-called "queen of diamonds", might be a passenger.

Senator James E. Watson, one of the latest entries in the free-for-all race for the Republican presidential nomination, has been prominent in politics in Indiana for 35 years. When only 30 years of age he was elected to congress to succeed the veteran legislator, James Holman, then the oldest member of the house. With an interval of one term Mr. Watson remained in the house until 1906. In 1912 he was floor leader for the Taft forces at the Chicago convention and helped the steam rolling of Roosevelt delegates. In the closing years of the old Cannon regime he was known as one of "Uncle Joe's" staunchest lieutenants. In 1916 he made his debut in the senate. Mr. Watson was born in 1864 and is a native of Winchester, Ind. He studied at the Winchester high school and at De Pauw university and was admitted to the Indiana bar in 1886.

Holy Name Society Meets At St. Vitus

Several Hundred Attend Gathering Sunday; Tentative Officers Named

St. Vitus parish church, Holy Name Society, for the first time on Sunday morning attended the 8:30 mass in St. Vitus church in a body, the members receiving communion.

The attendance of those interested in and belonging to the society exceeded expectations, there being several hundred men of all ages participating in the affair. Many of those in attendance renewed their pledges to refrain from the use of profanity, improper language and against perjery, while quite a number were new members making the pledge for the first time.

The pastor, Rev. Fr. N. DeMita, and his assistant, Rev. Fr. Patrick DiRanna, officiated in the celebration of the mass and were deeply impressed by the outpouring of men in the parish in the interest of such a worthy cause. Father DiRanna made the address of the occasion.

Enthusiasm shown was of such a character that an even greater attendance on the third Sunday of March, when the members will again attend mass in a body, is expected.

Temporary officers were appointed Sunday to guide the affairs of the organization until such time as a meeting can be held for the selection of permanent officers.

The officers selected are: Charles L. Ross, temporary chairman; secretaries, Carl Scungio and Nick Casakandro; masters of ceremonies Harry Ross and Hoy Greco.

These officers will meet in a few days and effect a permanent organization. Among other things planned is that of dividing the parish into 12 zones, with one man responsible for the men in their respective sections.

Masonic Building Burns At Hartford, O.

Loss Is About $40,000; No Fire Fighting Equipment Available In Town

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, O., Feb. 20.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Masonic building here, a two-story brick and tile structure, Saturday night, with a loss estimated today at $40,000.

Lack of fire-fighting equipment forced local residents to watch it burn without being able to do anything to check the flames.

The blaze started in the James Wilson store on the first floor of the building and was noticed by Boy Scouts shortly after the proprietor and a number of customers had left. In two hours nothing was left but the walls.

The building was erected in 1925 at a cost of $30,000 by the Masonic lodge of Hartford, whose lodge rooms were on the second floor. The loss to the Wilson store was about $8,000, while the Masonic and Eastern Star paraphernalia which was burned was valued at $2,000.

The lodge, one of the oldest in Ohio, recently celebrated the 100th anniversary of its founding. Lodge records, which were kept in a fire-proof safe, survived the fire. Officers of the lodge are investigating the cause of the blaze. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

UNION TRUST COMPANY OF NEW CASTLE

Claims $10,000 Damages For Alleged Attack In Ambridge Jail

A damage suit for $10,000 was filed in Beaver county court Saturday by John Sorocko of New Castle against P. J. Caul, former chief of police of Ambridge, and two other Ambridge policemen. It is alleged that Sorocko had his nose broken and was tortured with noxious gas while a prisoner in the Ambridge lockup.

The alleged assault took place after Sorocko was arrested in New Castle on April 17, 1926, and turned over to the Ambridge police to answer a charge of being an accessory and was held for court April 13 by Justice Lewis.

While in the Ambridge lockup Sorocko says he was questioned as to the whereabouts of Frank Peckarsky and says that when he told the officers that he knew nothing about the man they assaulted him. He says they placed him in a small room and turned on the "noxious gas".

Sorocko was released from the Beaver county jail on April 19 and was acquitted of the charge in the September term of court.

FOR 118 YEARS GIFT TO POOR IS MADE AS REQUESTED BY WILL

Sore throat all about you!

Gargle twice a day

These are days when sore throat, colds, "flu" and pneumonia are a constant threat. At the first sign of throat irritation gargle repeatedly with Listerine used full strength.

It may be—and very probably will be—the means of warding off a nasty cold, or worse.

The instant Listerine enters your mouth, it attacks the disease-producing bacteria that develop and multiply there.

For this reason, it has been the first aid of millions in checking cold weather complaints before they became serious.

In view of your constant exposure to disease germs, we urge you to use Listerine night and morning every day during cold weather. A simple precaution—but well worth taking. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

LOSING HIS TAIL TO SAVE HIS NECK

"Anxious days for us! They are that!" she exclaimed. "My heart is in my throat a dozen times a morning for fear something dreadful will happen to the children. Last summer poor husband lost his tail trying to rescue one of our babies from the clutches of old Whitie, the cat. Turn around, Robin, and show the boy."

Obediently Redbreast flirted about, with his back toward the boy, and Peter saw that Robin's tail feathers were very short indeed—hardly an inch long.

"I shouldn't have minded losing them as far as looks go," said Robin, "but although you might not believe it their loss has made it much more difficult for me to fly. You see my head is now heavier than my tail and I have to be mighty careful whenever I take a dip not to lose my balance. But there! What is done is done, and far better that I should have given up a few tail feathers than that I should have lost my life."

"I should say so, husband," declared his wife. "You would never have been given the power of releasing your tail feathers if you hadn't been supposed to use it wisely in time of need."

"What on earth are you talking about?" asked Peter. "I thought that Whitie the cat had torn them out."

"So he did, but I let them go to escape a worse fate!" said Robin. "Whitie could never have gotten off with my feathers if I had held onto them. But only a foolish Robin would try to save a few feathers at such a time. 'Tis a power most of us birds have, this losing our tails to save our necks. But as I said before there is no use in crying over what can't be helped! Bless my wings! Who can be coming now!"

"POOR ROBIN LOST HIS TAIL FEATHERS TO RESCUE ONE OF OUR BABIES"

Mrs. Robin shaded her eyes with one wing and gazed in the direction in which her husband was pointing. A few feet away, perched upon the old stone wall, was another fat gentleman who wore a red vest. As Mr. and Mrs. Robin and Peter stared at him the fat gentleman started to hop towards them.

"Why here is another robin returned to his own home town!" exclaimed the boy gleefully. "Is this returned traveler your brother?"

"Brother nothing!" said Robin, crossly, and for the cheerful fellow to speak like that was so strange that Peter turned and looked at him with surprise. Robin's feathers were all rumpled up and his eyes glittered and he appeared to be very angry indeed. But Mrs. Robin seemed greatly pleased. She cocked her head upon one side, flirted her tail coquettishly and answered the boy's question.

"The gentleman is no relation to my husband, but he is a friend of mine and Robin is jealous because he is coming to call upon me."

"I am not jealous!" scolded her husband, "but this fellow has no right to be paying any attention to my wife. You are a little flirt, Mrs. Robin, but I shall send your impudent friend about his business. Just watch me!"

His wife protested, but without paying any further attention to her, off darted Mr. Robin and flew straight toward the approaching bird. Peter expected to see a battle royal, but evidently the second robin knew that he was where he had no business to be, and without waiting to be attacked away he flew, Robin following close behind him.

Congress Paves Way For Action On Tax Slashing

All "Big Money" Bills Get Right-Of-Way In Congress Today

SENATE TO VOTE ON PROPERTY MEASURE

House Plans To Take Up Flood Control Bill Providing Big Expenditure

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Giving all "big money" bills the right-of-way after routine business is disposed of, congressional leaders today paved the way for a final decision on tax reduction.

More than a billion dollars is involved in the "big money" bills, which include food control, naval expansion, Muscle Shoals, "farm relief and alien property return.

The senate moved toward a vote today on the alien property bill to return Germany possessions seized during the war involving an immediate treasury obligation of $50,000,000 to pay for German ships, radio stations and patents.

The Norris resolution for government operation of Muscle Shoals and completion of the hydro-electric and nitrate plants, also involving millions, is scheduled to follow it.

The house will take up the flood control bill, proposing an expenditure of $473,000,000, immediately after disposition of budget appropriation bills.

A naval expansion bill, involving the Wilbur $740,000,000 program, is slatted for action in the house naval affairs committee this week, and an early decision on the floor, with farm relief following.

Importance Of New Castle District Shown In Article

Six full pages of reading matter and pictures are devoted to the New Castle district of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania in the February issue of the Telephone News, a trade journal which has an all-eastern circulation, according to a statement made this morning by Thomas J. Harper, manager of the New Castle district.

The New Castle district, says the Telephone News, serves some 231,0000 people with a dependable brand of telephone service. There are 13 central offices serving 38,350 stations and served by 141 plant employes, 470 traffic people and 30 commercial employes. Well over 200,000 local, 4,200 toll and 4,500 A-B toll calls are handled each day by the district traffic people.

In all there are 15 pictures of employes of the New Castle plant personnel and each of the departments comes in for a part of the story by the writer of the article.

Slight Accidents Reported To Police

S. H. Shaw, R. D. No. 6, reported Saturday that while driving west on Butler avenue near John street, that there were a bunch of girls engaged in snow balling. He thought one of the girls was hit by his machine but none of them claimed to be hurt.

George R. McCollum of 919 Moravia street ,reported Sunday that he was driving south on Mill street, near Phillips street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 377-180 going north and making a left hand turn to go east on Phillips street, collided with his machine. Some damage was done.

V. J. Carpenter, Morton street, reported Saturday that he was driving west on East Washington street near Oak street, when the car of John Conner, of Ohio, going on the left side of a street car ran into and damaged his machine.

Alleged Disorderly House Is Raided

When Lieutenant Pete Hillers, Officers Dukes and M. J. Young, County Detective William Fleming and Constable A. S. Leslie visited the home of Mrs. Charles Mudrak, 642 Cascade street, Saturday night they found a gang of men and women acting in a disorderly manner. There was evidence of drinking and Nitro Buly, one of the men, attempted to prevent Lieutenant Hillers from getting a mason jar, the contents of which a woman was trying to empty. Mrs. Mudrak was ordered to appear later, when she will be given a hearing on the charge of being the keeper of a disorderly house.

Fifteen men and one woman were arrested. Nitro Buly was assessed $15 for his interference, while the others put up forfeits of $5 each, which they did not appear to collect.

Nothing Definite On Ashing Country Roads

Nothing definite was accomplished at a conference held Saturday between a committee representing the road supervisors and the county commissioners. The committee presented a request that the commissioners allot a certain amount of money from the county funds for the ashing and repair of country roads. Heretofore roads have been ashed by the townships. There was some discussion as to how it would be determined where the ashes were to be used, and other matters connected with the proposition, but no agreement was reached.

EXONERATE DRIVER

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.—A coroner's jury today exonerated Andrew Brice, secretary to W. L. Mellon, Republican state committee chairman, in the death of Mrs. Sarah Meloney, 73, fatally injured by the car Brice was driving on February 3.

Testimony disclosed that the aged woman and her husband stepped from behind a parked car into the path of Brice's machine. The husband, also injured, will recover.

Indications are that the East will be better represented at this year's tournament of the American Bowling Congress than ever before.

Local Girl Scout Council Make Plans For Summer Camp

At the February meeting of the Girl Scout Council of New Castle the treasurer announced having received a generous gift of one hundred dollars from A. C. Hoyt, chairman of the Court of Awards.

The amount was given for no specific fund so it will be placed in the general fund for various scouting purposes.

Due to the commissioner, Elizabeth Reis being out of town first deputy commissioner, Mary Bigley is acting in the capacity of commissioner.

Miss Bigley appointed a camp committee consisting of Mrs. W. H. Hanger, chairman, Mrs. L. C. Brown, Mrs. Ralph Wettich, Helen Wilson and Elsa Ashmore to make plans for a Girl Scout camp to be held at least two weeks this summer.

Past Presidents Of Rotary Club Speak At Noon

Dr. Ben Graham Of Pittsburgh, Among Those Making Addresses

Buck-passing by the past presidents of the New Castle Rotary Club was the feature of the meeting held Monday in the Crystal ballroom of The Castleton.

It all happened when the time came for someone to make a speech. All through the lunch past presidents eyed each other rather furtively, for someone had to be goat.

As first on the program "Silent" George Muse was asked to make a few remarks, but gently and firmly turned the job over to Edward Seavy, who in turn passed it on to George Winter. And from there it was hard to follow. Lee McFate tried his hand, but soon lost courage and turned it over to H. B. Richards, who turned it to DeLace Cole, who turned it to Dr. W. L. Campbell, who turned it to Loyal Wilson, who turned it to Dr. Ben Graham of Pittsburgh, former superintendent of the New Castle school district.

Mr. Graham spoke on testing thought and the relation original thinking had to commerce, science and business. One of the greatest boons that this new era has given to the country is more leisure time, which can be devoted to higher pursuits.

Testing thought is the spirit of the new age, Mr. Graham commented. It has come to be a struggle between external authority and internal authority, and internal authority is winning. Men do not do what they are told because they are told. No, they first find out if it is right.

"With the new age came the development of the spirit of Rotary," concluded Mr. Graham. "Rotary is the outgrowth of democracy, and the greatest Rotarian is one with an open mind. This, the age of the open mind, is also the age of good feeling that Rotary sponsors."

Good Samaritan Killed In Crash

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.—Funeral arrangements were made today for Ray J. Helbing, 29, of Aspinwall, a suburb, who died in a hospital yesterday from injuries received while assisting three injured motorists. Helbing had picked up a man and two women hurt in a crash on the Freeport road and was taking them to a hospital.

Helbing's car skidded on the icy pavements into the path of an oncoming street car. The crash that followed resulted in the death of one of the injured women, Mrs. Harriet Meinert, 36, of Blacwnox.

Edwin Warlock and his wife, Catherine, were the other two. They escaped both their own and Helbing's crashes with slight bruises.

With a total of 2,410 dogs on display, the 52nd annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club has just held in New York, proved to be the greatest exhibition of blue-blooded canines ever held in America.

Jeanette Woman; Former Legislator Is Visitor Here

Mrs. Maude Trescher of Jeanette, Pa., a former member of the Pennsylvania General Assembly and now working with Mrs. S. Blair Luckey in the Legislative work of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Women's clubs is in New Castle today, the guest of the Woman's club of this city.

Under the sponsorship of the Department of Public Welfare, Mrs. Trescher is speaking in the Highland United Presbyterian church this afternoon her subject being "Legislation."

The two things which Mrs. Trescher will stress will be Voting Machines and the Welfare Bond Issue. "I believe we need voting machines in Pennsylvania," said Mrs. Trescher. "Perhaps not in counties where the voting is done in an honest manner, but in the crowded city districts I feel that they should be installed. As for the Welfare Bond Issue, we need the $50,000,000.00 for immediate relief and for an expansion program to cover the next ten years."

The meeting this afternoon will be in charge of Mrs. Irving Brown and it is expected that several hundred will attend.

GIRL SCOUTS

Minnehaha Troop

Minnehaha troop of Girl Scouts met Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the City building for the usual monthly meeting. A special feature of the meeting was the dividing of the troops into four patrols.

Three girls were appointed patrol leaders. They were: Mary Christman, Anna Mary Alexander and Sarah Lee Broida. The fourth leader will be appointed at the next meeting Saturday, Feb. 25.

Dry Enforcement Program Is Given Setback By Court

Supreme Court Rules That Automobile Confiscated From Violator Must Be Returned

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The federal dry enforcement program suffered a set back today when the supreme court ruled that an automobile cannot be confiscated under the Customs Act when the driver is charged with transportation and possession of liquor and pleads guilty to the latter in violation of the prohibition law.

The decision was a victory for automobile finance companies, since in a confiscation under the prohibition act the interests ofan innocent mortgage holder are protected.

The circuit court at San Francisco was reversed. The case originated in Seattle when Leo Oppie pleaded guilty to possession and his coupe was confiscated. The Commercial Credit Company, mortgage holder, sought recovery of the car and appealed the case.

Distributions To Corporations Are Termed As Taxable

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The supreme court today decided that amounts distributed in the liquidation of a corporation are not dividends, but are to be treated as payments in exchange for stock, and therefore are subject to normal federal income tax as well as to surtax.

The court reversed the eighth district court and sustained the policy the treasury has followed for several years.

Decision was rendered in the government's appeal in tax cases against Isadore and Milton Hellman, wool dealers of St. Louis.

Orchestra Leader Seeking Divorce

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.—Alleging cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to his person, Dave Harman, widely known jazz band leader, today filed a libel for divorce against his wife Edna Harman of Williamsport, through his attorney.

Remus Is Sane, Alienist Says

Noted Alienist Says Remus Not Fit Subject For Insane Asylum

(International News Service)

LIMA, O., Feb. 20.—That George Remus is sane and not a proper patient for a psychopathic hospital was the testimony given here today by Dr. Shelby Mumaugh, defense alienist.

Dr. Mumaugh was the second alienist called in Remus legal battle for release from the Lima hospital for the criminally insane. Four other alienists are to follow Dr. Mumaugh, who was to resume the witness stand this afternoon. Testimony similar to Dr. Mumaugh's was given Saturday by another defense alienist.

Rumus' fight for freedom follows his acquittal "on the sole grounds of insanity," by a jury after he was tried at Cincinnati for the first degree murder of his wife Augusta Imogene Holmes Remus. Trial Judge Shook then ordered Remus confined to the state hospital.

Alienists who testified for the state at the murder trial found Remus sane, though the jury returned the only "not guilty" verdict allowed by the charge of the trial court.

Lawyer Reveals Girl Murderess In Bad Health

(International News Service)

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 20.—Doris Palmer McDonald's health is failing in L'Asile Ste. Marie where the former Mount Vernon, N. Y., girl is confined awaiting execution of March 23 with her husband for the murder of a taxicab driver.

This was revealed here today by her attorney, J. A. Legault, following a visit to the condemned girl.

"I fear for Doris' health unless she can have the bracing air of the mountains," said Legault. He said she is afflicted with tuberculosis.

Mrs. J. McDonald of Portland, Me., mother of Doris' husband, visited both the prisoners on Saturday.

Coolidge Approves Army Housing Bill

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—President Coolidge today signed a war department appropriation bill, authorizing expenditure of $6,792,000 for housing army officers.

Sharon Company Is Ordered To Answer "Interrogatories"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.— Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in court today ordered the Sharon Steel Hoop company to answer a "list of interrogatories" filed by the Alliance Steel company of Ohio.

This was the latest action in the case whereby the Alliance company charges the Sharon company infringed upon a patent for improvement of certain types of trolley cranes. The order today requires Sharon Steel Hoop to answer questions concerning specifications and other technical data in connection with its crane. The patent was perfected in 1912 by Homer Kendall, employe of the Alliance Steel.

Litigation between the two companies has been pending since May 6, 1927.

Supreme Court Affirms State Inheritance Tax

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The supreme court today held constitutional the Massachusetts inheritance tax law insofar as it taxes trusts when they come into the possession of heirs upon the death of the creator of the trust.

The court affirmed Massachusetts courts, which held that Eleanor Saltonstall and Lawrence Brooks, children and heirs of Peter C. Brooks, should be taxed on a trust which the latter created for them, effective upon his death.

Closing Arguments In Contempt Trial Are Begun Today

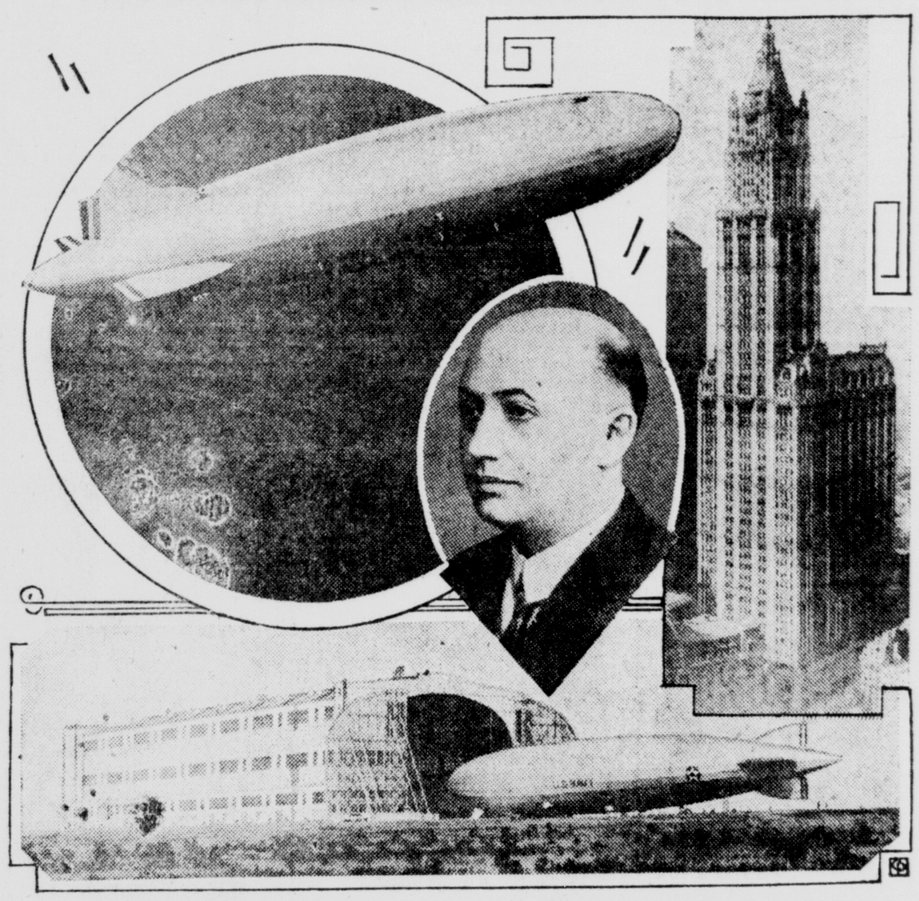
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Final arguments in the contempt trial of Harry F. Sinclair, William J. Burns and two associates were begun in District of Columbia supreme court today. Five hours were alloted to each side.

Justice Siddons said he would withhold until arguments are completed on a decision on the defense motion to dismiss the charges.

Several European bicycle racers never before seen in America are to compete in the six-day race to be held in Madison Square Garden the week of March 4.

FIVE CITIES SEEK UNCLE SAM'S NEW DIRIGIBLES



Uncle Sam is waiting for construction on two new giant dirigibles to begin, but as yet the ships are homeless. Baltimore, Md.; Cleveland, O.; Akron, O.; Los Angeles and San Diego, Cal., are bidding for the lighter-than-air plant. The ships are to be built by a rubber company of Akron, O. The concern submitted the prize winning design in government competition. Dr. Karl Arnstein, inset, engineer, is largely responsible for the design. A gigantic hangar, 400 feet longer than the one which covers the Los Angeles at Lakehurst, N. J., also must be constructed. Above, artist's conception of the new dirigible, which is 158 feet longer than the Los Angeles, seen leaving Lakehurst hangar below, and nearly 50 per cent greater in diameter. At right, the Woolworth building, New York, which is 792 feet high, and could be tucked away in one corner of the new hangar.

Five Lives Lost In Ferry Mishap

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—Five lives, it was feared today, is the toll claimed by the strange mishap on the ferryboat Peralta last Friday night.

As the federal hearing to determine the cause of the near-disaster resumed, mystery still cloaked the fate of two women and three men who are believed to have been passengers aboard the trans-bay ship when the huge wave swooped down upon her decks and caused panic in the ranks of some 4,000 homeward bound commuters.

Fall Proves Fatal To Woman Centurian

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 20.—The end hastened by a fall from a chair, Mrs. Hannah Jane Baird Gray, aged 100, died today at the home of her 77-year-old son, James Dewitt Gray, in Shavertown, near here. She passed the century mark, December 11, when relatives gave a party in her honor.

Until six months Mrs. Gray enjoyed excellent health although her sight and hearing had failed. She was a native of Orange county, New York.

Swick Petition Papers Filed In Capital Today

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—As the final day for the filing of candidate's petitions drew closer, the state bureau of elections today received the first heavy mail since the recording began. The rush is expected to continue until March 5, the final day.

James A. Dyke of Mt. Carmel, for the 17th Congressional District and John L. Steward of Washington, for the 25th, filed republican petitions for delegates to the national convention. Neither is pledged.

Three Republican candidates filed for congress. They were Alfred J. Shissler, of Shamokin, 17th district; J. Howard Swick, of Beaver Falls, 26th and Edward M. Beers, of Mt. Union, for the 18th.

Filings for the State House of Representatives included Harry B. Richardson, of Beaver, and Alfred J. Beattle, of Transfer, for Mercer County. Both are Republicans.

Man Files Suit For $50,000 In Alienation Act

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.—A wife's affections are worth $50,000 to Thomas R. Floyd, a grocer of Salem township, according to a suit he filed against William F. Nichols, a baker here, in common pleas court today.

Lloyd said Nichols had made "protestations of love" to Anna M. Lloyd, and had gone on auto rides with her and remained away over night, in his recital of the case. He charged Nichols alienated his wife's affections.

Seventh Ward News

THIRD WEEK OF REVIVALS STARTS

Revivals End Next Sunday Evening; Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

The third and last week of the union revival meeting was begun Sunday evening in the seventh ward. Excellent meetings have been conducted each evening the past two weeks in the ward with large attendances present at each service. Rev. Thomas Houston, the blind evangelist is in charge of the services.

Sunday evening the evangelist sang the song, "The Holy City", and preached on the same subject. For this service the auditorium was filled and the Sabbath school nearly filled. The song service is an important part of each service, and the choir contributed an anthem at service Sunday evening. Earnest gospel messages are preached each evening by the evangelist.

This evening at the union revival service Sabbath school night will again be observed. All members of the three Sabbath schools are to meet at the Mahoning M. E. church at 7:30. The people will then march around the block to the Presbyterian church in a body. The evangelist will preach on the subject, "The Flag of Flags", at the service tonight.

Special features are being planned for other evening's this week. Tuesday evening the woman's Bible classes of the three churches will attend in a body and on Wednesday night the men's classes. Wednesday afternoon there will be a Bible reading in the church at 2 p. m.

METHODIST CHURCH

This evening from 6:30 until 7:30 the girls' basketball team of the Mahoning M. E. church will have practice in the church gym. On next Monday evening this team will play its first game of the season, playing the Triangle team of the Y. W. on the Y. W. floor.

Wednesday afternoon the Ladies Aid society of the church will have a business meeting at 3 o'clock in the church.

Thursday after school the Home Guards will have their meeting in the form of a birthday party.

Thursday evening the Standard Bearers will attend the revival service in a body and after the service will have a meeting at the home of the counselor of the society, Mrs. David Daye Sleppy on Newell avenue.

WESTFIELD GUESTS

A delegation of young people from the Westfield Young People's society were guests at the meeting of the Senior Young People's society of the Mahoning Presbyterian church Sunday evening. Bob Shearer, president of the society, brought greetings and invited the local society to attend the Christian Endeavor meeting at Westfield. An excellent meeting was conducted.

DINNER PARTY HONORS BIRTHDAY

Mrs. A. D. Knight Entertains At Dinner Honoring Mother's Birthday

Mrs. A. D. Knight of N. Cedar street was a delightful hostess at a twelve o'clock dinner in her home on Saturday, given in honor of her mother's, birthday, Mrs. W. T. Jones, of Newell avenue.

Centering the dinner table was a large birthday cake. Covers were arranged for fifteen guests. A delicious dinner was enjoyed. Mrs. Knight was assisted in serving by her sister, Miss Veda E. Jones.

Following the dinner the afternoon was spent informally with music and social chat. The honor guest was the recipient of many beautiful gifts and among them was a token, a pot of tulips from a daughter and son, Mrs. H. M. Fugitt and Guy Jones of Barberton, O., who could not be present. Miss Alice Godwin of Edenburg, was an out of town guest.

BASKETBALL GAME

Friday evening of this week the Mahoning M. E. Basketball team will play the Croton M. E. team in a church league game on the Y. M. C. A. floor.

COMMITTEE MEETING

The general committee in charge of the union lodge meeting of the Railroad Auxiliaries will have a meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. C. B. Grassel of W. Clayton street.

PENNA-BO LODGE

Penna-Bo lodge to Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen will have their lodge meeting Wednesday afternoon in the Woodman hall.

MABEL WILSON LODGE

Mabel Wilson lodge number 567 to Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will have their lodge meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening in the Daughters of America hall.

COMBINATION DRILL

The combination drill for the union lodge meeting will have a practice promptly at 7 o'clock, Thursday evening in the Daughters of America hall. This practice is preceding the Mabel Wilson lodge meeting.

VISITING HERE

GIRL SCOUTS

The Eagle troop Girl Scouts will have a meeting this evening in the Mahoning school but will attend the revival services in the Mahoning Presbyterian church at 7:45. Members of the troop will meet at the church and sit together. It is urged that all be present.

QUITE ILL

R. W. Hamilton of W. Madison avenue is quite ill at his home.

G. I. A. LODGE

The Grand International Auxiliary to Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will have their lodge meeting Thursday afternoon. The meeting is to begin at 1:30 sharp.

PLAN FOR PARTY

The Epworth League of the Mahoning M. E. church are making plans for a party, known as a Leap Year Frolic, to be held in the church basement on Tuesday evening, February 28. All persons from fourteen years old and above are invited to attend. There will be a good program and a good time. Mrs. Henry Hamilton is general chairman in charge of the event.

VISITS HERE

Mrs. Lillian McCullough of Pittsburgh, visited with friends in the seventh ward over the week-end.

Minister Finishes Work At Grove City

Local Pastor Holds Special Prayer Week Services At College Town

Grove City, Pa., Feb. 20.—Dr. W. E. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of New Castle, Pa., completed the special chapel services here at Grove City College, which have been held this past week in observance of the annual prayer week. During the past week, classes were shortened and special services held each day from 11 to 12 o'clock, a. m.

Besides conducting the morning evangelistic services, Dr. McClure interviewed many of the students of the college and assisted them in their personal problems.

Dr. McClure is affiliated with the joint committee on College Evangelism and Visitation of the Presbyterian church of the United States, and his sermons during the past week were greatly appreciated by the student body.

Hot, nourishing, delicious —and so easily made!

Here's a wonderful drink for children!

ARE you one of the thousands of mothers who have been searching for a mealtime drink your children will like—and that is good for them? Try Instant Postum made with milk! Your children will love it!

For here is a "grown-up" drink—a drink "like Daddy's"—the kind of drink your children are always teasing you to give them. It is delicious, appetizing, with a flavor children immediately like.

And it's nourishing—not harmful. A drink that combines the wholesomeness of whole wheat and bran with the body-building nourishment of milk.

Just put a teaspoonful of Instant Postum in a cup, pour in hot (not boiled) milk, stir, add sugar to taste—this wholesome drink is ready! A drink that children like—even children who do not like milk alone. And it eliminates the danger of caffein, the beverage drug that yearly takes its toll of health and happiness. There is not the trace of a drug in Postum!

Your grocer has Instant Postum. Order it today—serve it to your children tomorrow! And try it yourself—made with either milk or boiling water. Better still, make Postum your mealtime drink for thirty days. Then judge its benefits to your health! You'll never want to go back to mealtime doses of caffein!

"Individual Initiative Is Responsible For America's Growth"

says Andrew W. Mellon
Secretary of the U. S. Treasury

"It is private initiative which is chiefly responsible for America's rapid growth in wealth. Whether we shall continue to grow and expand depends upon whether we pursue an intelligent and constructive or a hostile and destructive policy toward those forces which have brought about our present development."

Fifty years ago there was no electric light and power in America. Modern household conveniences, modern labor-saving and safety devices were then unknown. Labor worked from twelve to sixteen hours at wages averaging less than one dollar a day.

Large scale production at low cost and the high earning capacity of workers are the basic factors in America's present high standard of living. But only through the electrification of industry have these factors become so effective. Without electric light and automatically controlled motor power and electric heat the industrial miracles of today would be impossible.

Back of the electrification of American industry is the impulse which has made all America great. Individual initiative left free to work and plan, and reap a just reward for its enterprise, has invented, perfected and produced our electric tools of home and industry.

There has never been any granting of special privilege, no exploitation in the natural growth of the electric light and power companies. Engaged in providing a public service which has played a vital role in the progress of American prosperity, individual initiative alone has been and must always be the moving force back of our electrical development.

Wins Knox Trophy For Marksmanship

New Castle Man Member Of Battery Which Wins Trophy For Gunnery

FORT EUSTIS, Va., Feb. 20.—Private Peter J. Cincy, Battery "E", 52nd coast artillery, brother of Mary Cincy, 503½ rear Division street, New Castle, Pa., found the spotlight turned upon him here today because he is a member of Battery "E", 52nd coast artillery (railway), which has just been awarded the famous Knox trophy for proficiency in target practice and gunnery during 1927.

In receiving this trophy Battery "E" becomes automatically the outstanding coast artillery organization of the United States army. All the glory accruing to the command is, of course, reflected upon the individual men comprising it, without whose efforts persistently applied throughout the year, such a brilliant final success in marksmanship would have been impossible.

The Knox trophy was founded several years ago by the Sons of the Revolution of the commonwealth of Massachusetts to "perpetuate in enduring bronze the name and fame of Major General Henry Knox, who has been called the "Father of American Artillery". General Knox was chief of artillery of the Revolutionary army. He followed Washington as the first commander-in-chief of the American forces, was first secretary of war, and played an important part in the founding of the United States Military academy at West Point, N. Y.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

GOD AND CALAMITIES

Editor New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear sir:—I wish to offer the following as a comment on "God and Calamities", as published in "Letters to the News column" of February 17 and signed by Mrs. B. C. Pence. My comment is not submitted in the spirit of criticism or rebuttal, but that rather than become discouraged, "some forlorn and shipwrecked brother, seeing, may take heart again".

It is an established fact that our viewpoint of the world is influenced to a very great degree by our environment. In a sense it is a glass through which we see the world. Education is a medium that clears this glass and gives us a broader view. It has been truly said that "one-half of the people do not know how the other half live". We come in contact with many people every day. We see them through the glass of an environment and in our little, narrow, insignificant minds we judge them. How different they might appear if the glass was removed and we could see them as God sees them. "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart."

I wish to call attention to an incident recorded in the Scriptures. It is found in I Kings, chapter 19. Elijah was seeing the world through a very blue glass. He thought he was the only one of God's people left. "And even I only am left." He could not see the 7,000 true worshippers that God could. It is hard for God to use a worker in his vineyard when they see the world as Elijah saw it. You will note that when he repeated that "And I, even I, only am left" that he was at once directed by God to annoint his successor. There is also food for thought in the statement of the Lord in verse 18, "Yet I have left me 7,000 in Israel, all the knees which have not bowed down to Baal and every mouth which hath not kissed him." The Lord did not say that there are left me 7,000, or that it just happened that 7,000 had not bowed down to Baal, but he said, "I have left me 7,000 in Israel all the knees which have not bowed down to Baal."

We are very much in debt to our great men of science alluded to by the author of "God and Calamities". They have and are proving by their scientific research that numerous incidents recorded in the Bible are true and really happened. I believe that God is ever present today, everywhere. That he is the guiding hand of the complete universe. However, I believe that he allows causes such as the cooling of the earth's crust to carry out his will. Why scoff at our learned men because they have discovered the natural causes used by God.

You will probably remember when the fault-finding Scribes and Pharisees asked Jesus, who had sinned, that a certain man had been born blind, he replied that neither had this man or his parents sinned, but that the Son of Man might be glorified. Is it not possible that a great catastrophe might happen, not because of sin, but that God might use it to glorify His name?

I am happy to say that although I see the world through a glass of environment. I believe that it is growing better. I believe as Jesus, that his word would never pass away and that the cross of Jesus has, is and will prevail. I had the pleasure of attending a church in our city not long ago where 143 converts were received that day. I attend regularly a church that has not passed a communion service without receiving a goodly number to its membership in the several years that I have attended. Conditions may be worse in New York, but "why bring that up?"

I believe that there is plenty of work in God's vineyard. That the harvest is ripe. But I also believe that the Lord of the harvest is in full charge and that the job is progressing very nicely.

Rather than be like Elijah and think that I, even I only am left, let us sing, "Onward Christian Soldiers, onward as to war, with the Cross of Jesus going on before."

P. J. PERRY,
201 Garfield Ave.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Old Sores and Ulcers Can Be Healed!

Many a person has succeeded in healing stubborn old sores and ulcers with applications of Peterson's Ointment after expensive treatments had utterly failed.

Here is a letter well worth reading and if you have a friend afflicted the same, why not send him this?

"About a year ago, I contracted 15 varicose ulcers on my arm which rapidly grew worse. They extended up my whole arm, one-half inch deep. I used several salves, but instead of making my arm better they made it worse. Blood poisoning nearly set in. Doctors told me I would have to have my arm amputated. Finally I read about your Peterson's Ointment in the newspapers and began to use it. After several boxes I began to see an improvement, and within a short time the ulcers were entirely closed up and healed. I am glad to say a good word for Peterson's Ointment and you can refer to me any time."—Mrs. Patrick O'Neill, Buffalo, N. Y.

Nearly every druggist recommends Peterson's Ointment and you can get a good-sized box for only 35 cents.

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT.

Are you giving a dinner this month? If so, you doubtless want the menu to be a little different from that used by any of your friends who have entertained recently. Especially is this true if a group frequently dines together.

Consomme Browned Crackers
Stuffed Halibut Steak Oyster Sauce
French Fried Potatoes
Scalloped Tomatoes
Apple, Celery and Nut Salad
Apricot Pudding with Lady Fingers
Coffee Mints

Today's Recipes

Stuffed Halibut, Oyster Sauce—Have two halibut steaks cut one and one-half inches thick. Cover with a marinade (use French dressing seasoned with salt only), let stand one hour. Drain. Lay slices of salt pork on a fish sheet or pan and place one steak over the pork. Dip one cup oysters first in melted butter, then in seasoned cracker crumbs, and with them cover the entire surface of steak. Place remaining steak on oysters, season and lay thin slices of pork on top. Bake 35 minutes, basting often with drippings in pan. Before removing fish from oven, tak off pork and cover top with one cup of seasoned cracker crumbs. Brown and serve with oyster sauce.

Oyster Sauce—Wash one pint oysters; strain liquor and heat to boiling point. Stir together one-fourth cup melted butter and one-fourth cup flour until well blended. To this add slowly the hot oyster liquor mixed with one cup hot milk or cream, stirring constantly. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt. Heat oysters and when plump and edges curled, drain and reheat in sauce, but do not boil. Serve in hot sauce boat.

Apricot Pudding, Lady Fingers—Spread eighteen lady fingers with apricot marmalade, slightly heated. Arrange them in a buttered baking dish. Beat yolks of four eggs slightly (many use less eggs and a little cornstarch), add one-fourth cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt and gradually two cups scalded milk. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens; add one-half teaspoon vanilla and pour over lady fingers. Let stand one hour, then reheat in oven. Spread with meringue made of whites of three eggs, beaten until stiff. Add four tablespoons powdered sugar and one-fourth teaspoon vanilla. Return to oven to brown meringue.

Example of cirmusantial evidence: Chicago is like she is; she is the only city that has Big Bill for Mayor.

Havana Parley Final Session

Four Conspicuous Achievements So Far Recorded By Conference

(International News Service)

HAVANA, Feb. 20.—With the United States delegation highly pleased with the results, among which are included four positive important achievements of the conference as a whole, the sixth Pan-American conference embarked upon its final session today.

Although some bitterness on the part of several Latin-American states was obvious and expected, the conference began its last day with peace and amity as definite. Tangible evidence of its session which, during the course of the gathering, have surged from routine dullness to meetings surcharged with fiery oratory and diplomatic brilliance.

The question of intervention, regarded from the outset as a firecracker with fuse split, has been shelved for further discussion.

Among other less conspicuous but highly important achievements of the conference, these four stood out today as paramount:

1. The declaration for obligatory arbitration and the agreement to meet in Washington for the negotiation of a general treaty.
2. The adoption of a Pan-American aviation treaty.
3. The great strengthening of the Pan-American Union by putting it on a firm basis as a non-political agency of continental solidarity.
4. Important steps forward in the codification of international law.

The plenary session today was expected to ratify the projects on arbitration and the Pan-American Union.

John Old Scout! You're Growing As Thin As A Rail

He used to be such a manly looking fellow with good features and a fine figure, but now his meagre flesh hardly covers his bones—He is absolutely skinny.

Pretty tough on John to have his friends talking about him that way, but the health resorts and the Mountains are populated with just such John's who kept getting thinner and thinner without trying to help themselves.

That's why every underweight man and woman should take advantage of McCoy's generous offer.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

J. F. HANEY DIES AT PITTSBURGH

Founder Of Haney Furniture Company In This City Passes Away

After an illness of many months, James Francis Haney, aged 73, who for years was a well known furniture dealer of this city, is dead in Pittsburgh, death occurring Saturday, February 18, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. Blaine Snow on the Kinsman road.

Mr. Haney came to New Castle some years ago from McKeesport, Pa., and established the Haney Furniture company on the public square. Several months ago he retired from active business and with his wife and daughter moved from East Lincoln avenue back to Pittsburgh.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Clara McKinley Haney; a daughter, Miss Caroline Haney, another daughter, Mrs. L. Blaine Snow of Pittsburgh; a son, Howard A. Haney of Boston, Mass., and two sisters, Mrs. William D. Hamilton of Pittsburgh and Mrs. John L. Getty of Indiana, Pa., and one granddaughter.

Funeral services will be held from the family home at 417 South Dallas avenue, Pittsburgh, Tuesday afternoon, February 22. Mr. Haney was a member of the Point Breeze Presbyterian church and the Sons of the American Revolution.

KIWANIANS TO HEAR DISTRICT OFFICERS

Homer Swaney, district governor and John S. Wells, district secretary both of Beaver Falls will furnish the program for the New Castle Kiwanis club at its weekly luncheon to be held in the Elks club on Wednesday noon February 22.

HAD BACKACHE DAY AND NIGHT; COULDN'T WORK

Ten Herbs Gave Relief, And Also Ended Chronic Constipation.

"I had backache so badly, day and night, that I got very little rest," was the statement of Mr. Charles Schrantz, 613 Linden St., Allentown, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating the popular medicine, Ten Herbs. "Finally, I felt so bad that I lost several weeks' work," continued Mr. Schrantz, who is a silk weaver. "I was so badly constipated I had to keep taking laxatives. Then my kidneys seemed to get out of order. I had to arise many times at night. I did not know which way to turn, as none of the medicines I tried did me any good, whatever.

"I read about Ten Herbs in the papers, and after hearing you tell about the merits of your medicine, I bought a bottle. I soon found that I had at last found the proper medicine. Backache si gone, and my kidneys seem to be in good condition. My bowels are more regular than at any other time in my life. I am pleased to give Ten Herbs a recommendation."

Ten Herbs is a splendid mixture of natural medicinal ingredients, which cleanse the human system and drive out old poisons and impurities, which may have been collecting within the body for a long time, and which cause so much misery. Ten Herbs is used and highly recommended to relieve disorders of the stomach and liver, which are so common among modern people. This great natural medicine also benefits the kidneys, regulates the bowels, and has a soothing, correcting effect on the whole system, usually making one feel better in every way. Ten Herbs has helped others in this locality and why not you?

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results. Free sample given.

Probe Death Of Marine Officer

Philadelphia Detectives Believe Officer Killed During Fight

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—Detectives today renewed their investigation into the mysterious death of Warrant Officer William J. Cahill, 40, U. S. marine corps, believed to have been murdered with carbon monoxide gas from exhaust of an auto engine.

Cahill's body was found buried under rubbish on a lot in South Philadelphia Saturday. Police laid his death to murder when several small boys found his gold watch on a dump more than nine blocks from the scene where the body was found.

The slayers, police theorize, tried to make the death appear accidental after they struck him down by holding his inert form before the deadly fumes of the auto's exhaust.

Cahill lived with his wife and son in West Philadelphia. He left home Friday afternoon to attend a movie. Police believe he went to a party and there engaged in a fight which led to his death.

SUMMONS IS FILED IN DAMAGE SUIT

Moses Karien has filed a summons in trespass at the prothonotary's office against Charles A. Bookover in which $15,000 damages is asked. The statement of claim, in which the basis of the suit will be set out will be filed later.

SCOTTISH RITE AUDITORIUM

HERBERT PEAIRS, MANAGER

To the Theatre-Going Public of New Castle, Pa., Please Stand By for Your Station Announcement.

THIS IS THE SCOTTISH RITE AUDITORIUM,
HERBERT PEAIRS, SPEAKING

It is indeed a pleasure and a privilege to be able to offer for your entertainment AL JOLSON in "THE JAZZ SINGER" which opens today for a six days' engagement at the Scottish Rite Auditorium.

While it is not the policy of the management to personally endorse all of its photoplay offerings, at the same time I cannot refrain from doing so in the case of "THE JAZZ SINGER." Undoubtedly it is one of the greatest pieces of picture entertainment ever offered.

Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" A Warner Bros Production

Those who have seen "THE JAZZ SINGER" with and without the aid of the Vitaphone, admit Al Jolson's singing pleases immensely. However, this specialty in my judgment is secondary to his wonderful natural acting throughout the play. The play itself is the very essence of soulful sentiment—tears—laughter—thrills, harmoniously blended, compelling all to forget its adjunct—the Vitaphone.

A carefully selected orchestra of trained musicians will play.

I urge everyone in New Castle to see AL JOLSON in "THE JAZZ SINGER."

Later I will have something to say about Super Grand feature pictures coming to the Scottish Rite Auditorium. 'Till then adieu.

Herbert Peairs, Manager,
SCOTTISH RITE AUDITORIUM.

Ask $20,000 For Injuries Sustained In Auto Accident

Mr. And Mrs. Thomas Borvoilos File Suit Against Audley R. Smith For That Amount

Thomas Borvoilos and Leah Borvoilos, his wife, have filed a suit at the county prothonotary's office against Audley R. Smith in which $20,000 damages are asked as a result of an automobile accident on East Washington street.

In the statement of claim it is alleged that Mrs. Borvoilos was walking on East Washington street sidewalk near Pearson street when a car belonging to Audley R. Smith, and driven by his daughter, Myrna Smith, ran up over the curb and struck Mrs. Borvoilos, knocking her down and injuring her about the face, arms and body. It is claimed that Mrs. Borvoilos had but recently got out of the hospital where she had undergone a serious operation, and that as a result of the accident she sustained a severe shock to her nervous system.

She was in the hospital for some time and $331 was spent for medical services and hospital bills. Mr. Borvoilos claims to have spent $375 for help and estimates that he will have to spend $5,000 more. He puts his damage for loss of services of his wife at $4,000. The balance of the $20,000 asked is for Mrs. Borvoilos.

Earl Of Asquith Is Buried Today

(International News Service)

STUTTON COURTNEY, Eng., Feb. 20.—With the utmost simplicity the remains of the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith (Herbert H. Asquith) were buried here today following a brief service in the parish church.

About 100 personal friends of the Asquith family attended the church service, while hundreds of others waited outside to witness the interment in the picturesque old churchyard.

The body was removed from The Wharff, the Asquith country home, to All Saints' church last night after darkness had fallen. Beneath banks of flowers the oaken coffin remained before the altar until it was taken to the grave today.

Dog-Mushers Open 120-Mile Classic

Famous Woman Racer Among Those Competing In Classic Today

(International News Service)

QUEBEC, Feb. 20.—Nineteen dog mushers, including the first woman dog sled racer to compete in Canada, will start in the eastern international dog sled derby, which opens here tomorrow. The woman in question is the famous Mrs. E. P. Ricker, who has trained for several years in New England's shorter races for this 120-mile classic.

The race will last throughout today, tomorrow and Wednesday, each team traversing 40 miles daily. The ruling favorites are the 25-year-old Emile St. Godard, winner of the 1925 and also last year, and Leonhard Seppala, 52-year-old hero of the serum dash in Alaska, who finished second last year.

ONLY TWO PAPERS PLACED ON RECORD

No deeds for the transfer of property were placed in record at the register and recorder's office on Saturday, and only two mortgages. This is the smallest amount of business of this nature at the register and recorder's office for many years.

PITTSBURGH MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—An inquest will be held today in the death of a man believed to be Albert Moss, 35, of Pittsburgh, Pa., as his train pulled out of the Dearborn street station here last night. Moss either fell or jumped from a sleeping car platform and was crushed under the wheels. He was identified by his luggage.

Campaign Frenzy Grips National Capital As Conventions Near

MANY POLITICAL BEES ARE BUZZING

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press And New Castle News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Washington is politically radio-active enough this time to suit anybody.

In 1924 it was the deadest spot on the map.

It was headquarters for only one presidential prospect of any consequence, and his prospect was such a cinch that nobody took any interest in it. Calvin Coolidge was absolutely certain to get the Republican nomination, anyway, so, in advance, that was finished business.

Al Smith never visited the capital at all; Bill McAdoo and John W. Davis very briefly and infrequently.

All the scrapping was elsewhere.

Besides, there was only one good scrap anywhere—Smith's and McAdoo's. That was a humdinger, but otherwise the whole campaign, pre- and post-convention, was monotonous—a mere walkover.

Oh, what a difference this year! Instead of only one candidate here, the town swarms with 'em.

Secretary Hoover's making medicine in the commerce department. Jim Watson, Charlie Curtis and Frank Willis are falling over each other on the Senate floor. Frank O. Lowden isn't present in person, but his political Siamese twin, Charley Dawes, is looking out for his interests—or somebody's. The Coolidge die-hards are still trying to figure two terms out of two terms and a fraction.

Al Smith-ites and anti-Al Smith-ites fight daily battles all over the Capitol and adjoining Senate and House office buildings, and up and down the subway underneath 'em. Jim Reed bushwhacks indiscriminately, and Al Ritchie hovers on the outskirts, only a short street car ride away, at Annapolis.

Both sides are split seven ways for Sunday.

As all the world knows, the Republicans are busted wide open on the industries - versus - agriculture issue; the Democrats are rent in twain on religion, and neither party can even estimate how badly it's sub-divided on the wet-and-dry question.

What's more, the Coolidge-ite Republicans accuse the Democrats of conspiring with the Progressives to cram Hoover—by making Coolidge impossible—down the G. O. P.'s throat, on the theory that Coolidge can't be beaten, but maybe Hoover can. They're afraid the plot will succeed, too, and the idea of the Democrats dictating a Republican nomination, to their own Democratic advantage, drives 'em almost frantic.

The oil investigation's another source of anxiety.

There are "old guardsmen" in both political camps who are suspicious of it.

Regardless of party, none of them likes the hint of campaign contributions of "big business" origin—"big business" having such a reputation for financing rival tickets alike, in order to be on the right side, no matter who wins, that it's hard to tell where the chips will fall, once somebody begins hewing.

At the best, very much of that kind of talk will make it mighty hard to handle the money end of the coming campaign—and it promises to be one in which plenty of spondulix will be unusually handy.

There's no choking them off, of course. They'd raise the country with their outcries before the "safe and sane" old-line element could get a good grip on their windpipes. But they're a pest at a time like this, when the managers already have more than enough to worry about, without a constant threat of the unforeseen to upset all their calculations.

Mothers, Do This—

When the children cough, rub Musterole on their throats and chests. No telling how soon the symptoms may develop into croup, or worse. And then's when you're glad you have a jar of Musterole at hand to give prompt relief.

As first aid, Musterole is excellent. Keep a jar ready for instant use.

It is the remedy for adults, too. Relieves sore throat, bronchitis, tonsilitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, chilblains, frosted feet and colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

The Daybook of a New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—It's seven o'clock in the evening in the Bowery and elsewhere. A gigantic copper moon shines down on Williamsburg bridge, and you see it through the 'L track as you pass crosstown streets. Here is the California Lunch. Signs written in soap on the window offer Boston beans, fifteen cents and beef stew twenty cents. There are many frowsy men eating both within. A young Chinaman presides over the till. And here is a store crowded with men who are listening to the gentleman at the counter explain the twenty-nine cent fountain pen. Few of them have twenty-nine cents, and few have use for a fountain pen.

Already people are entering the Bowery Chinese theater. The exterior is ugly and worn. Two pink sheets pasted on the wall announce tonight's entertainment in Chinese lettering. Next door, one may look in through spotless windows and see the virgin purity and order of the offices of the Chatham and Phoenix bank. A few men are watching a moving picture slide in the window. The slides mostly have pictures of white bungalows, bright flowers, children with thick legs, a young lady and a young man with a high collar. The sign says, anyone can have the same by saving. The old man with the string about his waist, in lieu of a belt, walks away muttering, "Yes, sir, that's a good idea."

Canal street. Streams of motors whiz across the Bowery going to and from Brooklyn on Williamsburg bridge. Across the street, a drunk sways perilously toward the line of moving cars. He shakes his fist and glares at the occupants. The cop blows his whistle and the cars halt. As the drunk crosses, he goes near one of the cars and kicks the tire hard. Then he chortles insultingly. He feels much better for that.

Well, here's a Windsor chair in a furniture store, exactly like the one I bought last week uptown. "Buy on the Bowery and save the difference," is the store's motto. The Windsor chair is marked four-ninety-five. That's funny. I bought mine uptown for three.

Grand street. Those short, little trolley cars that run across here are funny. They leap forward as does a jack-rabbit. Instead of swaying to and fro, they rock forward and backward on the axles. There's the big electric sign for the elaborate hotel on Grand street. You can get a turkish bath there and a swim in the pool for two dollars. That's one way of putting color into the Saturday night ritual. But two dollars is too much for a Bowery man.

Look, here's a barber shop with hot and cold showers in the rear. Thirty cents. That's more like it.

Every third store seems to be a poolroom. Players are wrapping themselves about bowls of Chili con Carne as they rest a bit. You can't see into the lobbies of the twenty-five cent hotels, unless you ride on the 'L and can peer over the curtains. There will be no indecent exposure of men who like to read the tabloids in peace.

A pair of young Chinamen in bell-bottom pants, derbies and form-fitting coats are studying a pretty yellow girl, who appears to be waiting for a street car. A second pair of white men are also watching her. The white men are dirty and ill clad. As a signal, ambassadors from both groups approach the girl. She sees both moves and subtly welcomes the young men of her own race. The white man retreats.

Everywhere men and more men shabby, hard-faced and forlorn. Everywhere cheap food, cheap clothing and cheap lodging. Everywhere sordid pleasure, exquisite pain. Another day will come tomorrow, and it will be equally dirty and futile. A large copper moon shines on the Bowery where it can, but no one stops to watch.

ESCAPED CONVICT WANDERS IN WOODS

Subsists On Pig Stolen From Barnyard And Roasted In Woods

(International News Service)

WAYNESBORO, Pa., Feb. 20.—Samuel Shockey, Beartown's fratricide and escaped convict who was ambushed and shot to death on a mountain trail near here, wandered for a week through western and central Pennsylvania before he arrived at his hiding place near here, according to his brother, Elmer Shockey.

The notorious killer escaped from a prison gang near Norristown on January 10 by fleeing from the barracks. He hid in a corn shock about a mile from the barracks the first day. Then travelling by night, he wandered thru woods and hills, avoiding the highways. On his second day away from the barracks he stole a pig from a farm yard, carried it into the woods and roasted it.

He ate what he could, and carried the rest with him. It was the only food he had during the entire week. At one time he lost his way and recovered his bearings near Sunbury. He turned south to Harrisburg, and walked the streets of the capital city openly. When he came to the Susquehanna river toll bridge, he had no money to pay the toll, so under cover of darkness he crossed the river on the railroad bridge.

Shockey told his brother he did not speak to a single person in the entire week enroute, and kept under cover during the days.

He hid in the mountains near his old home, where he later was mysteriously shot to death, and his head beaten in with an axe. He was serving a sentence in the Eastern penitentiary for murdering his brother, Jacob, when he escaped from the prison camp.

Foreign War Vets To Meet Tonight

There will be a regular meeting of Harry L. McBride post Veterans of Foreign Wars in the post rooms on Neshannock avenue Monday evening at 8 o'clock. George Thompson's team which is leading the membership campaign will bring in the first list of new recruits for obligation and a full turnout of the post is desired.

All members desiring to purchase rifles from the government at the special prices quoted at the last meeting must turn in their names and leave a deposit with the quartermaster Monday night as we are going to send the order this week. If you can't be present see that your name is sent in. There are other important matters to be settled.

Civil Service Board Is Fully Exonerated At Council Meeting

Members Of Board Attend Session And Conditions Are Cleared Up

Misunderstanding Over Recent Civil Service Examination Is Explained

J. Lee McFate, Dr. Loyal Wilson and Prof. Frank L. Orth, members of the civil service commission for police and firemen, today were given a "clean bill of health" and fully exonerated of any irregularities in connection with a recent examination of police candidates by Mayor Gillespie, Councilman W. T. Burns, D. O. Davies and C. H. Reeves. Councilman Tyler, ill, did not attend the meeting, which was held today in council chambers, City Hall.

Apparently a misunderstanding caused the invitation issued to commissioners to attend today's meeting, and as a result of the session a better understanding as to the rules and power of the board was obtained by city officials.

Examination Directed

Recently city council directed that an examination be held by the civil service board for policemen. The board's secretary advertised and in the notice it was stated that candidates should be 21-38 years old and weigh 150 pounds.

Candidates gathered under this impression and took the examination, and when the list of eligibles was certified to council it was learned that candidates weighing, in one instance 139 pounds, and between 140 and 150 pounds, had been passed.

Complaint by other candidates who had not been passed was voiced to councilmen, and not knowing the rule, adopted November 17, 1924, making the weight 140 or more pounds, the council invited the board members to meet with them and the commissioners today appeared and told councilmen that in conducting the examinations they had obeyed the rules.

Further, the board told council that the latter pody lacks power to act until the certified list reaches council and that the board, under state law, has the power to make its own rules and in no way had violated any laws that had been made.

Disclaim Instructions

They disclaimed having issued any instructions to the clerk to publish an advertisement prescribing the weight at 150 pounds, and said that while they did not know of it at the time, it probably had been done as the result of a custom while he was a city employe.

The board members also stated that there is a rule that during a certain limited time any candidates who believe they have not been treated fairly through any error have a right to take up the matter with the commission.

The gentlemen appeared at council chamber when the solons went into formal session and Mayor Gillespie brought up the matter as soon as the session convened.

Misunderstanding

Mayor Gillespie: "Something you want to bring before council?"

McFate: "Nothing except that we were invited here?"

Councilman Reeves: "There is a little misunderstanding here relative to civil service. I would like the city clerk to read the notice," meaning the advertisement issued for candidates, which appeared and said an examination would be held December 16, 1927.

The city clerk, Mrs. Thomas Jones, read the advertisement, which stated that the candidates had to be 21 to 38, inclusive, years old, five feet eight inches in height and weigh 150 pounds. The advertisement was signed by C. Ed. Brown, civil service board clerk.

Reeves: "I want to find out if this is the rule you went by?"

McFate: "There is nothing in the rules or act of assembly which requires publication."

Reeves: "Why would they put it in?"

McFate: "The clerk has always been . . . . ."

Reeves: "There is a resolution of November 17, 1927, offered by Wilson. Let us hear the minute."

The city clerk read the minutes which stated that the weight of candidates should be 140 pounds and heighth 5 feet 8 inches.

Advertisement Wrong

Reeves: "Then the advertisement is wrong?"

McFate: "Yes."

Reeves: "Then the meeting is irregular. Why put it 150 pounds and 5 feet 8 inches in the notice."

The civil services commissioner disclaimed responsibility for the advertisement.

Reeves: "Your clerk put it in. You are responsibile then" (meaning the commission).

Reeves showed a civil service commission booklet with certain rules.

Councilman Davies said that the local board had followed the Youngstown civil service board's requirements in the booklet.

The booklet which was printed in 1917, showed a weight of 150 pounds and a heighth of 5 feet 10 inches.

Davies: "It is a misunderstanding."

Reeves: "You have an advertisement in the paper for 150 pounds."

At this point Mr. McFate asked council if they had been summoned to answer charges or had been invited to council.

Nothing Irregular

It was stated that they had been invited to council meeting.

Dr. L. W. Wilson: Why does council 'neb in'?" The physician stated that there was nothing irregular.

Rr. Reeves said that in view of the advertisement and lack of knowledge of the 1924 rule had caused the inquiry, adding: "Let it rest then."

McFate said that a misunderstanding existed as to the board then explained why the state act was passed, adding that it had been enacted for the purpose of taking selection out of politics.

"If you read the act" said McFate " you will learn that council has no control over the board. Some do not like the word 'all-powerful', yet the act says the board has the right to arrive at the best possible men for the department."

The commissioner continued with an explanation of the power of the board and said that after the candidates had been certified as eligible the act gave council the control to turn men down. Until this time, McFate stated, council is not concerned. He told solons that when a candidate is vited down three times the name is removed from the eligible list.

He repeated the interpretation given by the late James A. Gardner, city solicitor. "Gardner told me the board had absolute control over the examination, rules, interpretation etc., until the list came into council." He said the board had the right to use their discretion.

Candidates Right

McFate said the board has a rule by which a man who feels he has been wronged, or an error made, has a right to "come back to the board." He also said that records are not public property.

"We have had cases where men have passed the examination, yet has not been certified. We have control over the reputation of a man. It doesn't seem right that a discussion of this should be made public and for that reason I do not think it should be publicly advertised."

"No" replied McFate.

"Then the clerk's advertisements should be stopped" said Reeves.

"It should be" agreed McFate.

"There is no rule that requires a note of publication but I did not know it was in the papers" added McFate.

He said that the clerk, formerly a city clerk, had been accustomed to putting all notices in legal advertisements and it was probably through this that the civil service board advertisement appeared.

Dr. Wilson said that he questioned if anyone went on under the weight as advertised.

Reeves said there had been one at 139 pounds, one at 142, another at 143½, nad in fact approximately six men below 150 pounds.

"How were they weighed?" asked Wilson. "Without clothes?" adding: "If it is Jack Dunlap you are after, he weighed 158 pounds."

"No," replied Reeves.

"I thought I would let you know if it was," declared Wilson.

"The notice appeared for 150 pounds," maintained Reeves.

Dr. Wilson said that Mr. McFate had explained fully to council referring to the fact as established today that the civil service board does not need advertise for candidates and that the placing of the advertisement was not due to a rule and had been an error by their clerk and which evidently resulted in the misunderstanding that the rules called for men of 150 pounds or more when there the rule calls for men to weigh 140 pounds or more.

Council Apologize.

"It is up to council to apologize and to answer for bringing us here. We demand that," said Wilson.

"This council is on record," began Reeves when Burns interrupted him by stating:

"I wasn't in favor of it," meaning the request that the board appear at council chambers.

Solicitor White interrupted the meeting to state that "I think there has been a little misunderstanding.

"There is a rule that a person weigh 140 pounds or more. There is one on the list weighing 139.

"That is not serious offense.

"The board has authority to hold executive sessions and to hold these meetings.

"Those executive meetings are privileged meetings but the rules of the civil service commission are and always have been public record and when rightly adopted they have to be complied with.

"As I said, there has been a number of criticisms. I felt if they came in with records they (council) would find there had been no wrong on the part of the board.

"There was a rule, 140 pounds. They advertised for 150 (meaning the clerk did). It was a mistake.

"Having been made I can see why they acted.

"I would rule as a matter of law that there is one man, 139 pounds, who is ineligible and the rest are.

"Men over 140 pounds who were turned down have a right to take the examination again.

"I do not think the council or the civil service board is guilty of culpability.

"I think it should be aired here and not in council meeting.

Not Aimed At Board

Professor F. L. Orth: "I believe everything has been said that ought to have been said. They (Council) should accept the recommendation of the board or discharge the board."

"I very seriously object to that" said Mr. Reeves. "It has not been aimed at the board." He said "this all shows they are high class gentlemen and said that "if they want me to apologize I will."

Councilman Davies interrupted Mr. Reeves stating "they erred when they published the advertisement. I do not blame the board but their clerk was wrong.

McFate explained the clerk's part stating he had been accustomed as a former city clerk to advertise notices and as he was elected clerk to the board he only pursued the former custom and continued to advertise.

Mr. McFate said he has been approached on the street by people who had gained the impression that council felt that the civil service board had been doing something wrong and something they had no right to do.

"This got out from what was said. "The civil service board were within their rights" he stated.

Mayor Gillespie: "There has been some intimation that you might have favored the mayor-elect (meaning himself)"

"The mayor-elect never approached me which is more than I can say for others" answered McFate.

Councilman Burns said that the motion adopted by council recently be rescinded and the records of the council show that the members of the civil service board had not appeared before council.

Solicitor White explained to the members of the board that the councilmen appreciated the entire membership of the board appearing before council.

"Have the clerk explain in a minute that the civil service board came in and that the matter was completely arranged to the entire satisfaction of the entire council" remarked Burns.

"Is that sasisfactory to you gentlemen?" he asked colleagues.

"This was the best way to clear it up" said Davies.

"It is a misunderstanding" stated Reeves.

"They did not know that advertisement was in the newspaper" said Davies as the civil service board members left the room.

Councilman Tyler did not attend today's meeting being confined to his residence on account of illness, having been ill for a week.

Al Jolson Feared The Picture Screen

The three focal point in Al Jolson's career are brought into Warner Bros'. "The Jazz Singer" at the Scottish Rite Auditorium This Week. First, there is Coffee Dan's famous cellar ham-and-eggery, which was the gathering spot of the vaudeville performers in San Francisco for many years. The coffee was good, the ham and eggs exceptional, and the impromptu entertainment by the visiting troupers something so unusual that it had a quality of its own. The strange thing about Coffee Dan's was that few people outside the profession ever went there, even when it became most successful. There it was that Al Jolson worked for a long time. He worked there singing and cracking jokes because it was the only engagement he could get, but there, too, under the critical eyes of his professional friends, he learned the trick of entertaining single handed, which made him a star and the most profitable star in the country.

Half way across the continent was Chicago. The scene in Chicago was the State Lake Theatre, when in truth it was a music hall now defunct. There Jolson also appeared whenever the opportunity offered and there he learned more of his public. And at the last, the Winter Garden in New York, where Jolson became a star. So important was the Winter Garden to "The Jazz Singer" that Warner Bros. induced the Messrs. Shubert to let them actually take some of the scenes at that famous spot. The first Winter Garden show in which Jolson appeared was "Bow Sing". Then followed a series of successes and within a short time the comedian's name was at the head of a show of his own. But Jolson was camera shy. His art was of the type that required he should be heard as well as seen. He had no confidence in himself as an actor for he had to sing, too, to be able to act. Then came Warner Bros. with Vitaphone. Jolson made one audible presentation for them, as an experiment, and then it was an easy matter to sign him up to play the star part in "The Jazz Singer".

Postal Company Representative Is Before Council

Seeks Permission To Purchase Two Ducts If Municipal Conduit Is Sold

H. Scrivens, district superintendent of the Postal Telegraph company today appeared before city council relative to the proposed sale of the municipal conduit to the Bell Telephone company.

Mr. Scrivens asked permission for the company to purchase two ducts or in case of the sale having the latter matter adjusted so that their cables would be allowed in the conduit.

Scrivens and the legal department of the Bell Telephone company will confer before the sale is made and attempt to work out a mutual agreement.

Pays Tribute To "The Castleton"

Says Local Hotel One Of Finest In Entire American Chain —Praises Manager

What stockholders in The Castleton can expect eventually from their investment was explained this morning by Oliver G. Schott, local representative of Spencer, Kamerer and company of Erie, in recounting the history of the Lawrence Hotel at Erie.

Last month, declares Mr. Schott, the Lawrence Hotel reported a room occupancy highest of all houses in the United chain of hotels. And in February, the turn away list mounted to an average of 35 guests a day.

"New Castle has one of the finest hotels in the American chain," further stated Mr. Schott, "and I believe that eventually it will pay even more than the Erie hotel now is paying, although it has recently declared a seven per cent dividend.

"In Mr. Slack, New Castle has one of the most efficient managers of the American chain. And he likes the city and will do all that is possible for the prosperity of the hotel and the some 1000 odd stockholders who are interested in the new hotel."

Plan To Attend Seattle Meeting

March 2 will be a big night for the Maltas and the entire membership is looking forward to this occasion.

POLICE INVESTIGATE AN ACCIDENT CASE

FIRE OCCURS SUNDAY.

City firemen were called to the former Leroy hotel building, corner Long avenue and Scioto street Sunday evening about 5:15 o'clock by an alarm from box 55. They found a fire in progress in the room of Joseph Predwitch in that building which had been caused by a gas hot plate used to heat the place. The loss was about $25.

FINES ASSESSED.

Stanley Blashak of 114 Gardner avenue, and Steve Koski and Frank Labargo were arrested Sunday at the Blashay place by Officers Dukes and Thompson, the former charged with being the keeper of a disorderly house and the latter two as visitors, they were assessed fines of $10 each which they paid.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at McKee's Kut Rate Store Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Antiques Are Sold

By Clyde Weldon

MISS TABITHA wiped her eyes and replaced her gold-rimmed spectacles.

"It's pretty hard on an old one like me to be giving up my home and all the furniture, Jim, but I s'pose I've got to. With the mill shut down, I don't have any money from the stock I own. 'Twasn't much, but it kept me going."

"Well, cheer up, Aunt Tabitha. I'll tend to everything all right." The car lurched over the rutted road. Jim went on; "I'll stay right through the auction and see that everything goes all right. Course it's hard, and I'm as sorry as you. If I had the money, you can bet I'd buy it. I'll leave you with Marms, and you can stay 'till it's over."

Miss Tabitha lamented as they passed telegraph poles and fences plastered with the notice of the impending disaster:

"AUCTION TODAY
RAMBLER ROSE FARM"

"I s'pose I'll get used to being without it. I was setting store by laying out some new borders of sweet alyssum and heliotrope along the front walk, next Spring, and moving the pink rambler to the trellis over the door. And I was aiming to give the house a good cleaning. I sure will feel like a ship without a rudder."

The little car reeled into Marm's dooryard. Jim's mother appeared at the shed door, wiping her hands on an ample apron.

"Whatever do you think! Capt'n Alden's house over to Four Corners burned flat last night, so Ira Tasker said, when he left the mail this morning. Nice house it was, too."

"Yes," sympathized Miss Tabitha, "'tyas a mighty fine house. 'Tain't as though he couldn't afford to build another, but as it was the place where he was born, he wanted to settle in it after being away most of his life. You don't have trouble of your own but what you can always find someone who has worse. Even if I have to sell the house, at least it ain't burned to the ground, I can go and look at it once in a while."

Having uttered this philophy, Miss Tabitha climbed out of the now docile auto and warmly embraced her niece, who hospitably pushed her into the house.

Jim cranked the car and returned to "Rambler Rose Farm."

There was already a crowd on the front lawn, some interested, others merely curious. The auctioneer arrived, nailed a red flag with the word "Auction" on it to a maple tree, and followed him into the house.

He tipped his derby at an angle and jerked his vest down over an expansive waistline, while he surveyed the furnishings with a practiced eye. By this time the audience had followed and filled the little house.

"Now, ladies and ge'm'n; How much am I offered? Here's a fine antique mahogany low boy—dandy curved legs, carved feet, original brasses," he glibly recited. "Do I hear thirty-five? Can't let it go at that. Who'll give more?"

"One hundred and fifty!" cried the auctioneer. Who'll give me one hundred seventy-five?"

There was a murmur from the bidders, and then silence. No one was willing to part with this amount.

The purchaser was a man with gray hair and blue eyes, of kindly mien and had the bearing of one who had faced the gale of the sea. It was Captain Alden, whose homestead had burned the previous day.

All through the day, he was not to be outdone in bidding. He became the owner of it all, including the house, much to the disappointment of those who wanted to buy the lovely antiques. Gradually the gathering dispersed. The auctioneer took down his flag and departed, leaving the Captain and Jim alone.

"I reckon this will make me a fine, comfortable home," said the captain.

"Well, I do feel it quite a loss on account of it's being my boyhood home, and all the furniture had been in the family a long time. I've been away many years, but now I'd hoped to settle on the old place. That's why I was determined to buy everything here—so many antiques similar to what I've lost—about the nearest I can get to replace them."

"My Aunt Tabitha will be glad to know that you own it," said Jim, and left the captain walking about, looking over his purchases.

"Tabitha, Oh, yes, Tabitha Fenwick. A mighty pretty girl she was, too." He went on musing. "I can see her now, fluttering around at the church festivals. Hm-m, who can tell now what might have happened if I hadn't gone to sea so young?" The captain smiled.

Jim returned home, satisfied with the unexpected outcome of the auction, and glad that he could tell Aunt Tabitha that her home had an appreciative owner, only to find his mother much agitated.

"Aunt Tabitha's gone, and where I don't know," Marms wrung her hands. "I went out to feed the hens and stayed longer than I meant to, and when I came back she was gone. I'm afraid this upset's too much for her."

"Don't worry, she's around here somewhere," reassured Jim.

"No, she's not, for I've looked everywhere," wailed Marms.

Jim telephoned to the nearest neighbors. No one had seen her. With the sun setting and the cold dusk dropping over the countryside, Jim was now alarmed himself. Cranking the already overworked auto, he went to find Aunt Tabitha.

His searching brought him on the road to Tabitha's house. In the blinking lights of his car he saw a dark object. He jerked his brake, got out and picked up Aunt Tabitha's pathetically flat handbag.

She must have come this way," he thought. "Probably couldn't resist the old place!"

He left the auto and continued to look for her. Reaching her former home, he walked up the front path. There, through the open window, he saw Captain Alden standing, silhouetted against the light of the oil lamp. Miss Tabitha was sitting in her old rocker, dabbing her eyes with an inadequate handkerchief. The captain was speaking:

"Everything is yours again—the house and all your beloved antiques. And, Tabitha, I'm thinking I'm an antique, so won't you have me, too?"

"Have you ever laughed until you cried?"

Willie—"Yes I did this morning."

"How?"

"Father stepped on a tack. I laughed. He saw me. Then I cried."

Certain Signs

By Claire Wesson

DIDN'T I say it was going to storm?" Seth watched the few white flakes floating in the air. "You know what Friday was," he added, as his wife, intent on frying doughnuts, made no comment. "'twas the last Friday in the month, and I told you what to expect. That shows all your old radio knows about it."

Placing the last doughnut carefully among the others to drain on the brown paper in the pan, his wife looked out the window to appraise the weather for herself.

"'Tain't storming much," she said. "Besides, the radio didn't say it wouldn't. He just said 'increasing cloudiness and warmer.'"

"Look here, Pa"—his wife shook her head disapprovingly—"don't it always up and get warmer before it snows, after a cold snap like we've just had? Besides, you never say anything when the radio's right, and 'tis, most times. Everybody makes some mistakes. You was mighty proud when John had it set up for us 'n we heard his voice. And tonight he's going to speak again." She took a white envelope from her pocket and handed it to her husband. "You were out in the barn when it came."

The old man, whose son had lived to walk in high places, opened the envelope eagerly. He had finally grown to like the radio because it enabled him to hear his boy's voice. Yet, having waged a battle with Nature all his life, he was rather opinionated. His years of struggle with the soil had made him distrustful of the weather. He did not enjoy having his prophecies turn out wrong. Hence the hint of triumph in his voice as, having read John's letter carefully, he glanced out the window and exclaimed, "There, Marthy, jest look now."

"Marthy," he said, quite humbly, "don't worry. You know everybody—I—make mistakes sometimes. Remember that big storm last Summer in hayin'? I said—'n we never got a drop of rain, we were just on the fringe—" His voice quavered slightly.

Seth watched the snow piling about the shed door in the afternoon as he chopped wood. Several trips to the house were merely excuses to glimpse his wife's face as she sat near the radio with her mending. Once he was sure he had seen tears. For a few moments after that he chopped savagely. Finally he reach for the snow shovel hanging on a nail and shovelled a path from the house to the barn. The snow was not deep yet.

He stepped through a small door cut in the larger one and entered the barn. The sweet fragrance of hay, the soft lowing of his cattle always filled his farmer's heart with delight. Today he heeded neither. His forehead was creased in deep lines of care. Climbing a ladder into the loft, he walked toward a small window and looked in the direction of the house. Suddenly his expression changed to one of relief.

"Sure's preachin'" he murmured, joyfully, "the smoke's going straight up from the chimney." After a few minutes he returned to the ground, inhaling the sweetness of the hay happily as he fed his cattle. "I'll bide my time, though," he continued to himself. "Don't want to raise poor Marthy's hopes too high. Seems like all signs fail sometimes."

After supper he stood for nearly half an hour and watched apprehensively out of the window. Suddenly he left the kitchen and went into the sitting room where his wife sat near the radio, crocheting, now and again glancing at the clock on the mantle. Seth picked up the two pairs of headphones from the stand.

Around the World

By Joella Johnson

"She's a bird!" he thought awedly. "Has flitted all over the world, and born to the purple, too."

"Put me down at Gordon's," she decided grandly. "I'm shopping this afternoon. Jimmy prevailed upon her to lunch with him again on the morrow.

Something must be done, he decided on his way back to the office. James Arlington Drew must bestir himself and catch up with the great procession, in which the white finger of Nancy Fern beckoned.

After a week of expensive luncheons, Jimmy was no longer an insurance man, but a globe trotter. He sailed tropic seas in the wake of a small white shallop, trailing a silver rudder in the shape of a luncheon fork. True, he made calls on "prospects" during the forenoons. But the late afternoon found him penciling whirligigs on the daily memo, waiting for the muezzin's call, and brushing the desert sand of failure from his eyes.

The odd thing about it was that he knew as little of the girl at the end of the week as he had at the beginning. She simply kept him in foreign lands, carrying her travelogue with a lake or an ocean, an Alp or a chasm.

And here she left him—alone in a chasm. He couldn't invite her again. His exchequer was flat. The walls of finance seemed high and slippery indeed, the insurance business hovering above him like a wet blanket of fog. Jimmy was young.

Was he in love with her? he asked himself. Hanged if he knew!

At this depressing moment, a junior partner rounded on Jimmy and "ate him alive." Tingling with resentment, Jimmy went forth to call on "Old Man" Crockett. All the chaps had labored to sell Silas Crockett, a "hopeless" prospect who wasn't so very old, but made up for it tigerishly.

It was almost closing time when he gained admittance to the lair of the Toughest Proposition. A cold stare and a grumpy nod greeted him. But Jimmy wasn't bothering about either. He was gazing, fascinated, at a pale finger of sun, receding, like a gleaming sail, from the expanse of sea-blue rug.

"Mr. Crockett," he recklessly monotoned, "you have a young daughter, and some day she'll want to travel. She'll want to see this whole God's country; to peer down the awesome canon and take winding trails over mountain ranges, where the American eagle screams a welcome. She'll want to sail through the Golden Gate to China, and watch the barefoot coolies loading silks and tea and rice. She'll climb the crooked streets of cities, thousands of years old, and listen to the temple bells of Asia. She'll ride a camel, plowing the desert sands, and visit the bazaars of Indian towns, seated on a swaying elephant—Jupiter! Where am I," gasped Jimmy, inwardly. But the silence and growing dimness encouraged him.

He shamelessly abandoned the uncertain beast with its precious freight and took a long jump to the "clean, flowered streets of Geneva" where he tellingly lingered. After lightly stressing Rome and Venice, he moved on to Paris, then London, where he breathed quite freely. Here he bolstered his weak narrative considerably.

Nancy had rhapsodied over London. Hadn't she dabbled her lily-white fingers in the muddy Thames? Now he had "Daughter" on the broad Atlantic.

"She'll be entranced by the indigo sea dashing to white and green spray on Moro Castle in the harbor of Havana. Under the warm stars, she'll tramp the deck and listen to snatches of music from the city, while dark ships with yellow ports slip silently by against the lights on the waterfront. Her ship sails for home at midnight—" Jimmy's voice died.

Suddenly the place seemed to crackle with life. The lights were on. Snapping out of his self-hypnosis, Jimmy confronted a strange glare from under bushy brows. The eyes were glistening.

"She'll need a lot of ready cash for all that," gasped "Old Man" Crockett.

With an odd feeling at the pit of his stomach, Jimmy hitched his chair forward and plunged into the opening. He emerged with a whacking big policy. Calmer now, he appraised the rugged man.

"I'm sound," growled Crockett.

"Old man, let me have Miss Fern's address."

"How come, James, m'boy?"

"Never mind; let me have it."

"No, just a business matter."

"Oh, ho! Come along out."

"Where?"

"You'll forgive me, old chap, won't you?" begged Steve Bender later of the stricken Jimmy. Jimmy's Nancy was squirming in the arms of his friend. "However," Steve went on, "Sir loves the mystry stuff."

Nancy Fern Bender gasped on his lapel: "I—I've never travelled anywhere. I—I saw it all in the movies. Steve thought you needed my—my imagination," she ended in a wail.

"Jane, I wish you would not sing that frivolous song any more."

The Angel Child

By Monte Darrell

A CIRCUS woman's son play with my Timmy? Never!" Mrs. Tarr set her lips.

"You're too hard on the boy," his grandmother replied. "Of course he'll play with his next door neighbor. And Alvin seems like a nice little chap."

Grandma knit in discreet silence. She had been with her daughter long enough to be a trifle suspicious of golden-haired Timmy, with his angel's face and heavenly voice. Secretly she hoped he was too good to be true.

"There he comes now," she observed, an obscure satisfaction in her voice. Mrs. Tarr looked up with a startled cry.

Timmy wiped an arm across his mouth, leaving a dark smear, and edged away. "Nothing, Mother," he replied, his sweet, clear voice somewhat thickened by the loss of a tooth. His mother caught his arm in growing horror.

"Who you been fighting, Timmy?" asked his grandmother with interest.

He shot her a swift side glance. "Alvin and I had—words," he answered with an intonation so like his father's that his grandmother laughed aloud.

Mrs. Tarr colored angrily. "Don't laugh at him, please, Mother," she begged. "Sweetheart, tell me what that dreadful boy did to you."

Timmy wriggled from her grasp. "It ain't what he done to me," he cried, suddenly forgetting his mother's careful schooling in grammar. "It's what I done to him!"

"What did you fight about?" Grandma's interest was genuine.

"He said I couldn't stand on my head!" cried the boy, and bolted from the room.

"Stand on his head!" cried Mrs. Tarr. "And my son a descendant of Governor Bradford!" She drew a deep breath. "Well, now they've quarrelled, Timmy will give up that boy."

Timmy mentioned Alvin no more, and Mrs. Tarr's fears were lulled. It was, therefore, with a distinct sense of shock, two months later, that she came suddenly upon the two boys in close converse.

"Timmy," she called, "I want you." The boy came reluctantly. "Don't forget Greta's party this afternoon," she admonished him. "And Timmy, you mustn't associate with that boy. He is not the sort of person we care to know."

Timmy's eyes were wide. "But, Mother, I've taught him a lot of things. He says himself he's improved."

Grandma choked. Mrs. Tarr felt a sudden rush of pride. The little darling!

"Dearest"—she stroked his yellow curls—"when you are older I hope you will do lots of good. But just now, dear, it might be misunderstood." With loving hands she clothed a long-suffering Timmy in brown velvet and ruffles for the party.

For once Timmy did not care. Alvin, too, had been invited to the party and Timmy was anxious that he should be a success. He stepped in for a word with his grandmother before leaving.

"Thanks for the cakes, Gram," he whispered. "Al was real tickled you remembered his birthday. Wish you were coming today," he added regretfully.

Grandma pondered over that parting sentence. She never asked for confidences. Timmy trusted her, and had asked her for a miscellaneous assortment of articles, knowing that she would provide them without asking for explanations. But something was in the air today, and she had an inkling that was soon due to find out what those boys had been up to.

Greta's party was about half over when her mother telephoned to Mrs. Tarr. "It's a children's party, of course," she explained, "but I wish that you and your mother could come over. There's something rather unusual going on."

She had not exaggerated, as Mrs. Tarr discovered to her horror. The party, which had begun as the usual pink tea, had been taken out of Greta's hands entirely. Timmy and Alvin had captured the center of the floor and were staging a creditable one-ring circus. Before Mrs. Tarr's stratled gaze were three chairs grouped on top of a table, with Alvin balanced on them, and above Alvin, his head almost against the ceiling, her angel Timmy.

Mrs. Tarr, shaking with indignation, turned to her hostess to protest, but in the eyes of Greta's mother shone only admiration.

"Those boys are so clever," she cried. "I'm so glad Timmy persuaded me to invite Alvin. We're fond of him already."

The protest died on Mrs. Tarr's lips. No use making a fuss here. But to herself she vowed that her Timmy should not suffer one more day of contamination from that circus woman's son, whatever Greta's mother said.

The performance, practiced daily in Alvin's barn with painstaking care, was a huge success, and the children swarmed excitedly forward when Alvin made his final sweeping bow. Timmy, with a sidelong glance toward his mother, began to speak hastily, but Alvin turned on him with an injured glance.

"I ain't through yet," he announced, and proceeded to conclude his performance, while his hearers sat in stunned silence. Such a smooth and lurid flow of profanity had never before been heard by the guests. And Alvin spoke with pride in his accomplishment, as if he had spent hours in learning his lesson and had it letter perfect.

Mrs. Tarr rose grimly, triumph at last in her eye. This settled it.

"Come home, Timmy," she said authoritatively, "and try to forget those terrible words." She coldly ignored the rest of the assembly.

Of the company, Alvin alone was at ease, and he laughed aloud now. "Terrible? Say, Mrs. Tarr, that's nothing at all. Timmy's saving up the best words to teach me after I show him my trapeze stunts."

"I ought to have something to say about the expenditure in this house," said the angry husband. "I make the money—don't I?"

"Yes," retorted his wife. "You make the money; but, remember, I make it stretch!"

In front of a dark house he stopped his car to light his pipe. Two strange men came out and loaded in a case of bottled goods. "Now get away quick," they whispered. So he did.

At the Sign of the Geranium

By Hazel Courtney

OFFICER BANGS had traced the contraband goods as far as Freetown. From there on he was stumped. Without success he had interviewed all suspicious characters in the village and carefully searched their premises. Still, Officer Bangs knew the "stuff" had been landed in Freetown, so he could not well give up the chase.

"Get a soap-box, Tim," he ordered his deputy, jocosely but with determination, "and when the movies let out next Tuesday night, stand out in the square and offer a reward for any information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of these lawbreakers. This rum-running has got to be stopped!"

Most of the movie patrons who listened to the deputy's jerky little speech regarded it as an amusing incident—a humorous bit of comedy from real life after the rather harrowing melodrama they had just witnessed on the screen. Among those who took the offer of reward seriously was the impoverished Widow Ward.

Mrs. Ward was a gaunt, gray woman—her skin and hair were gray from worry and toil, her clothing was gray and threadbare, and her life itself was gray and cheerless. Extra money to her meant a sturdy pair of shoes upon her tired feet, a new hat for Sunday wear, and a choice cut of meat once in awhile.

Before retiring that night, Mrs. Ward made a mental list of the people of her acquaintance who might be guilty of liquor smuggling. Many of these folks she had known for years, and there was not one upon whom she could cast suspicion.

"If there is a guilty one in town, it must be a newcomer," she reflected thoughtfully. "The folks in Freetown are all good, law-abiding citizens. I wonder if it could possibly be that girl who moved in across the street last month? She is such a young and pretty creature, I hate to think of her as being underhanded. But the papers say that lady-crooks are getting more common every day, and the pretty ones are the most daring."

Marjorie Harland was indeed a "young and pretty creature." Her manners were those of a patrician, and her clothes represented the latest ideas of artistic designers. Mrs. Ward, who loved youth and beauty often watched her from behind the shades in her living-room. Secretly she adored the girl as she would a daughter, and yet she was forced to admit that Marjorie did "act queer" at times. She always sat on the porch alone and never attended any of the local social functions. If she was the person that Officer Bangs was after, Mrs. Ward intended to collect the money before anyone else had a chance.

Then, one day, Mrs. Ward made what she considered a startling discovery. Trembling with excitement, she hastened to headquarters and cautiously divulged her information to Officer Bangs.

"I've found your rum-runner, Mr. Bangs," she announced breathlessly. "It's the girl who lives opposite me! Every afternoon, at 3 o'clock, she puts a red geranium in the window to indicate that the coast is clear. This afternoon three men watched the window until they saw the plant, then they went in, without knocking, Mr. Bangs!"

Fifteen minutes later a delegation composed of Mrs. Ward, Officer Bangs and his deputy, and two of the town idlers (who were looking for excitement), burst unceremoniously into Marjorie Harland's kitchen. They found three young men seated at a table and Marjorie was serving them with sandwiches and tea.

"Young lady," said Mr. Bangs, displaying his badge, "you are under arrest. Who are these men you are entertaining?"

"Why, my husband and brothers," answered the astonished girl. "But I don't understand you."

"You will directly," continued the officer. "Is it true that you put a plant in your window every afternoon—as a signal?"

Marjorie laughed, and glanced nervously toward the front of the house. "Yes, a red geranium," she said, lowering her voice. "You see, I live with my aunt, who is a man-hater and won't allow a man in the house. I have recently been married, and am afraid that when Auntie hears of it she will disinherit me. I don't care about losing money; it's what will happen to her when I leave that worries me. She positively refuses to hire a companion. Auntie takes a nap every afternoon at 3, and then I signal to my husband and brothers, and we discuss her welfare and try to make arrangements for my future."

"But," concluded the girl, growing angry, "I don't know why I am telling you all this—it's no concern of yours. You have no right to question me like this; you have no right to be here at all!"

Suddenly, a winsome old lady, her hungry eyes denoting a life of disillusion and sorrow, appeared in the doorway. "Don't you worry about your old auntie, honey," she chirped. "I've heard your conversation, and everything's going to be all right—money and all! If there's one thing I admire in a person it's spunk, and you have it, Margie."

"And, now, she added with considerable fire for one of her age, "now, you busybodies, get out of my house and give us a chance to attend to our own affairs in peace!"

Mrs. Ward managed to stay after the others had gone. Her eyes were misty and she was sorely ashamed. "I am to blame for all that happened," she said brokenly. "I needed the money so much, and I was too hasty and thoughtless, I guess, and I judged you too quickly. Won't you please forgive me? I am terribly sorry."

It was Marjorie's aunt who answered her. "You needn't be sorry," she said kindly, "because you have really done us all a great service. You have brought Marjorie and her husband together, and you have also made a selfish, unreasonable old woman see things in a new light! And, furthermore, I'll need someone to care for me after Margie goes, and if you would like to come over, you need never worry about money again. Is it a bargain?"

"To strained," he said, "too strained. Don't think of each other all the time. Just look pleasant."

"Did you see the pleased expression on Mrs. Brown's face when I told her she doesn't look any older than her daughter?" asked Mr. Jones, after the reception.

Holding No School In Building Where Mother Killed Son

Room Is Repapered So All Traces Of Accident Will Be Obliviated

MERCER, Pa., Feb. 20.—There has been no school since Valentine Day at the little school house located at No. 5 Mine where at 2 p. m., on that date the most fearful tragedy that ever took place in Mercer county happened when Mrs. Jeannie McCall in a demented condition killed her seven-year-old son.

During the enforced vacation the directors of Springfield township, in which the school is located, have had the room re-painted and papered to obliterate any possible remembrance of the fearful act.

The most commendable action was that of Miss Ebba Widing, the teacher, in getting the children out of the building as soon as she could. The courage of Miss Widing in handling the situation is most favorably mentioned here.

Especially is her action praised by the doctors who have a knowledge of the danger in which she stood in handling Mrs. McCall.

The school will be resumed this week with Miss Widing in charge.

ENON VALLEY

Spanish War Vets Will Meet Tuesday

Daniel Leasure camp, Spanish-American war veterans, and the auxiliary of the camp, will hold regular meetings Tuesday evening in their respective meeting places in the Legion Home. After their regular business sessions they will meet in joint session, when B. K. Thacker will give a short address on the Life of Lincoln, while Attorney George W. Muse will speak on the Life of Washington. The addresses will be followed by a social time, at the conclusion of which refreshments will be served by the ladies of the auxiliary. Mrs. E. J. Suber, president of the auxiliary, and Emmett Kurtz, commander of the camp, are working hard to have a large attendance at the meetings on Tuesday evening.

The American tour projected for this year by the Glasgow Celtics, the most famous of Scottish soccer teams, has been deferred until a later date.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

There was a time, say five or six years ago, when New Castle had several bands of musicians out on the road. That was the period when jazz bands were just getting into their swing and New Castle developed some of the best.

Gradually the bands disintegrated and the players went back into other organizations. But they're getting back to the home city, and if a couple more drift in, New Castle will have the makings of another jazz band here, in addition to the ones already here.

Here are some of the boys who are now in the city: Harry Hammond, formerly pianist of Marlin's Monarchs; Francis Hammond, formerly a star saxophone player with the Keystone Serenaders; Herb McBride, trombonist with the Little Jesse James musical comedy; Jack Pitzer, drummer of Jack Pitzer's Stage orchestra, and just last week Elmer Kalman, violinist of Dave Harman's band, came back to the city to engage in business, and Ted Marlin has been in business here for a year or more. Now if Benny Kyte and Ray McConnell would drift back we'd have an outfit.

While we're on the subject of music, the musicians and entertainers of the city are seriously considering forming a club modeled after the Lambs or the Players of New York. The idea is this: Here in New Castle are all kinds of musicians and entertainers. Anything from a ballad singer to a magician, and lots of them good enough to be out in vaudeville.

They have talked over the feasibility of a club where they could gather with a community of interests and as Ches Biddle says, "why not?". Certainly it would be a headquarters where one could obtain talent at a moment's notice.

Another card from the land of Florida. This time from W. M. White. Mr. White is soaking up the sunshine down there but finds time to drop a line to his friends. On days like this one, it must be a rather enjoyable place to be.

Still getting letters concerning the recent street and avenue contest, some of them pointing out little defects and others complimentary. Insofar as the News is concerned the contest is over. There is only one time in a newspaper office and the time is the present. Get a thing done and then do something else. The contest is done, now for something else.

Doesn't it give you a touch of spring fever when you read of the baseball teams going south and west for spring training? The Pirates are on their way to Paso Robles, Cal., the Boston Braves are on their way south, the Giants will be in Texas before long and all we'll have back here will be the newspaper accounts of the workouts.

Spaghetti Supper Aids To Be Guests

I. A. A. To Have Luncheon And Dance Tuesday At Humbert Hall

Board of directors of the New Castle I. A. A. will on Tuesday evening show their own appreciation and that of their organization of the work done by the ladies and girls at the recent spaghetti supper held in the Scottish Rite cathedral.

On this evening under the auspices of the directors of the organization, these ladies and girls will be guests of honor at a luncheon and dance held in King Humbert hall, Division street, in their honor. The affair will get under way at 8 p. m.

The husbands and boy friends of the honor guests will also be guests of the I. A. A. at this affair.

The spaghetti dinner, which was one of the biggest affairs ever held here, was a success largely to the efforts of the women and girls to be honored Tuesday night. The I. A. A. is anxious to repay the ladies in some small way for what they did and have taken this manner of doing so.

OVERWEIGHT

Overweight is dangerous—not only in itself, but as a condition indicating certain organic diseases. That's why insurance companies bar people of marked overweight. If you want to keep your weight at a safe figure, watch your diet, and above all, your liver!

A sluggish liver lets the system fill with poisons formed in food waste, and this toxic condition is a common cause of overweight. The liver needs a little help occasionally, especially after the age of 35, and there's nothing better for this, as doctors agree, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a splendid natural stimulant for the liver, promoting its normal functioning, so essential to real health.

Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few prove a revelation. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, ask for Dioxol.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Seeks Postoffice For Ambridge

Congressman Swick Making Effort To Secure Federal Building For Town

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 20. — Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls, held a conference with First Assistant Postmaster Bartlett late Saturday afternoon with a view to having Ambridge included in the new list of cities to be considered for new public buildings in the Government's public building program.

The Government owns neither building nor site at Ambridge, Congressman Swick said, and is compelled to lease postal quarters there. The postal business is rapidly increasing and has reached a point where Ambridge needs new quarters.

Congressman Swick said he was well pleased with the progress he has made and is hopeful that Ambridge will be included in the new list.

Last year the joint committee of Post Office and Treasury Department officials drew up a list of cities throughout the United States as being in most urgent need of new buildings. The list was based upon the $100,000,000 authorization for buildings outside of the District of Columbia to be expended over a period of five years. Recently Congress passed an amendment to the act which increased the authorization to $200,000,000. This will mean that many more cities will be provided with new buildings and Congressman Swick intends to see that Ambridge is included.

NOT A PAYING CONCERN

Visitor: "How's that?"

Farmer: "Well, you see, I bought him the fowls. I have to pay for their keep and buy the eggs from him, and he eats them."—Weekly Scotsman.

Brides in Ten Cities Tell Housekeeping Plans

On one point all these brides agreed. Their homes are to be run with skill, but they will not sacrifice a bit of good looks or charm. For instance, nearly all have decided how they will keep nice hands in spite of housework.

Many had noticed in beauty parlors that pure Lux suds are used in manicuring, to soften and whiten the fingers. Others had noticed how nice their hands looked after washing fine things with Lux. So, of 1,118 brides, 1,084, or 97%, plan to wash dishes with Lux.

"It's so easy never to let your hands get red and coarse-looking," they said. "Many soaps make the skin harsh, but pure Lux suds are so soothing and gentle! And Lux for dishes is inexpensive, too, because the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes."

WASH DAYS are HAPPY DAYS

State Police Recover 219 Autos In 1927

Troop B Of State Highway Patrol Recover Autos Worth $100,000

During the year just past Troop B of the Pennsylvania State Highway Patrol, with a substation in New Castle, recovered stolen automobiles with a value of $100,000.

In the year they covered 1,489,737 miles on their various duties in making 23,750 regular and 6,574 special patrols, investigated 1,231 accidents, made 1,824 additional investigations and made a total of 9,007 arrests.

These figures were issued by Capt. D. E. Miller, commandant of Troop B, which has its headquarters at Greensburg. Troop B. Covers the western part of Pennsylvania. Patrols are sent out from 21 permanent sub-stations. Besides the sub-station at New Castle there are sub-stations at Greensburg, Altoona, Bedford, Bellefonte, Curwensville, Huntington, Indiana ,Uniontown, Washington, Waynesburg, Allison Park, Beaver Falls, Butler, Franklin, Girard, Meadville, Ridgeway, Sharon, Warren and Wesleyville.

Since the first of January when the new motor code became effective two other permanent sub-stations have been established at Punxsutawney and Johnstown and temperary station at Avella, Brownsville, West Newton, Monongehela City and New Kensington.

PIONEER RESIDENT OF ELLWOOD PASSED AWAY SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Dr. D. D. Cunningham, Former Burgess Of Ellwood City, Succumbs To Bright's Disease

One Of First Professional Men To Settle In Ellwood Many Years Ago

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 20.—Dr. D. D. Cunningham, aged 65, passed away Sunday afternoon at his home on Spring avenue at 1 o'clock. Dr. Cunningham had been suffering some years with brights disease, his condition becoming acute about a month ago.

He was a pioneer resident of Ellwood City, having been born in Wurtemburg in 1863, and coming to Ellwood City in its early infancy, being the first professional man in town in the field of dentistry.

Some years ago Dr. Cunningham served two terms as Burgess of Ellwood City, and figured actively in county politics, being a candidate for the legislature a number of times. He is a member of the Elks and Moose lodges and a 32nd degree Mason. Full masonic rituals will prevail at his funeral services which will take place Tuesday afternoon from his home with Rev. Dr. Charles Bell officiating. Burial will be made in the Oak Park cemetery in New Castle.

The Epic Of Beecher's Island—Part XVIII
A Desperate Situation

THE FOURTH DAY OF THE SIEGE OF BEECHER'S ISLAND FOUND FORSYTH'S MEN FACING A DESPERATE SITUATION. THEY WERE HEMMED IN BY THE HOSTILES, UNABLE TO MOVE FROM THEIR SHALLOW RIFLE PITS WITHOUT DRAWING A SHOT, AND WITH NOTHING TO EAT BUT THE FLESH OF THEIR SLAIN HORSES.

THE RED MEN MADE NO FURTHER ATTEMPT TO ATTACK THE LITTLE RING OF SCOUTS ON THE ISLAND, BUT KEPT A VIGILANT WATCH TO SEE THAT NONE ESCAPED. OCCASIONALLY THEY FIRED ON THE DEFENDERS TO SHOW THEM THEY WERE ON THE ALERT.

ON THE FIFTH DAY THE ANIMAL MEAT BECAME UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION. THE SCOUTS WERE NOW DOOMED TO STARVE UNLESS HELP REACHED THEM SPEEDILY. THE WOUNDED SUFFERED SILENT AGONIES FOR LACK OF THE NECESSARY MEDICAL ATTENTION.

BUT NEITHER HUNGER, WOUNDS, NOR THE STRAIN OF SLEEPLESS NIGHTS COULD CONQUER THE INDOMITABLE SPIRIT OF FORSYTH'S MEN. THE HAGGARD SCOUTS DREW BELTS TIGHTER AROUND EMPTY STOMACHS, KEPT THE INDIANS AT A RESPECTFUL DISTANCE WITH THEIR RIFLES, AND CHEERED ONE ANOTHER WITH THE ASSURANCE THAT HELP WOULD SOON COME.

TOMORROW—NEARING THE ISLAND.

Fight Fans Ready For Pugilistic Whirligig

Carpentier And Dugan To Battle

ICONE AND MINTEER TO SETTLE QUARREL

By ED FRITZ

THERE'LL be no drones in the ring tonight at the Old Armory where U. S. Carpentier, Pittsburgh, and Mickie Dugan, Cleveland, feather weights, clash in the six-round feature of a whirligig of pugilism. Instead there will be eight battlers who hope to place themselves in the same category as the bee which drinks deep and hovers long around the honeysuckle for the favor of the queen.

Carpentier is one of the best featherweights produced by Pittsburgh as his fights with Tommy Crowley et. al prove while Dugan is as annoying to an opponent as a hornet near a swimmin' hope and that is for any man's consideration.

BOXERS HAVE FOUGHT TWICE

Dugan and Carpentier have fought twice and each holds a victory so tonight's battle should be the "rubber", or akin to the Red Jadabird-Jack Herman matches which started in Erie and which finally was settled in a third match here, which Jadabird won.

Red Mason, a well known paideutic of things fistic, manages the boy who had gorgeous George Carpentier as his idol while Jimmie Dunn, who is no man's subordinate as a tutor, pilots Dugan, hence a war of wits in addition to a battle of punches, is on tap for fans.

JOHNNY POLLOCK TO BATTLE RIO

The semi-final of six rounds will witness Johnny Pollock of Youngstown in action against Frankie Rio, formerly a Sharon high school football player. Johnny will have to be fast, clever and a puncher to beat Rio.

Rio is one of the neatest performers fans hereabouts have seen but according to Youngstown reports, Pollock is not without honor in the roped arena. Should Pollock be as good as his sponsors declare, the semi-final should abound with class.

POLISH WONDER TO OPPOSE ELMO

The Polish Wonder who, after knocking Joe Midway down at Youngstown, made the error of hitting him after the bell, but tonight he is expected to have his hands full with Elmo Clark in the second six-round preliminary.

The Youngstown boy, like Elmo, is tough. Neither is versed in boxing but depend on ability to give and take to win in the ring. Elmo hopes to defeat the Wonder in their clash.

TONY ICONE GETS RETURN WITH ROY

Ever since the match between Tony Icone and Roy Minteer, the former has nursed the suspicion that he is the redhead's master and tonight he will get a second chance to prove it. They will meet in the first preliminary of six rounds.

There's nothing vapid about the bantamweights and as they are both aggressive either is apt to win by a palebra and while the bout is only a preliminary their friends declare no one should have any vagaries as to which is going to win.

ARMORY GETTING REAL REPUTATION

According to managers of fighters, promoters and fans of tri-state cities the Old Armory is earning quite a reputation as an abattoir of fistics, mainly because fighters' reputations are slaughtered every Monday night.

The Old Armory may lack the upholstered seats and the presence of Tex Rickard's "millionaires row", but it does not go begging for fast and furious action and every time the bell rings something besides the timekeeper's hammer falls.

Westminster Continues March To Conference Championship

New Wilmington College Tossers Win Thirteenth Victory Saturday Night

Allegheny Five Falls Before Blue And White, 36-15

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 20.—In a rather listless game here Saturday night, Coach John Lawther's Westminster Titans won the thirteenth basketball game of the season and the eleventh in a row when Allegheny College was sent down to defeat by a 36-15 score. It was the second victory of the season for Westminster over Allegeny, the Methodists having been defeated last month at Meadville by a 44-11 score.

Both teams were decidedly "off" in shooting. As a result, numerous attempts to register field goals failed on the part of both teams. Connor, lanky Titan center, started the scoring in the first minute of play when he dropped the ball through the hoops for two points. Before the game was over, he had repeated this trick eight times.

Coach Lawther sent in his second team near the end of the first period, and while they were unable to score they held the Allegheny men from scoring. Coach Baker of the Methodists also used three substitutes during the game, but they were unable to stem the almost certain outcome.

For Allegheny, Nesbitt, center, and Bair, diminutive forward, were the best. Both played fast, clean ball and threatened time and time again. The work of Connor, who registered nine field goals and one foul, and Captain Lewis and Delahunty stood out for Westminster. O'Donovan was especially good in intercepting the passes of the Meadville crew, and Ayers, stalwart guard, played his usual steady and valuable role.

Westminster

	G.	F.	T.
O'Donovan, F	1	1-3	3
Delahunty, F	3	3-3	9
Connor, C	9	1-2	19
Lewis, G (Capt)	1	3-7	5
Totals	14	8-15	36

Allegheny

Winged Feet — By Feg Murray

Copyright, 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Tonight one of the most remarkable runners in the world makes his initial appearance in an indoor meet, and under the colors of the club he will represent for some time to come. Wearing the red and white Winged Foot of the New York Athletic club for the first time, Roland Locke will be the center of attraction at the annual N. Y. A. C. games in Madison Square Garden, New York tonight.

Roland Locke as almost everyone who follows sports knows is holder of the American record for 220 yards at 20½ seconds made at Lincoln, Nebraska on May 1, 1926. This record which has not yet been accepted by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, is faster than the world's record of 20 4-5 held by Charley Paddock. The I. A. A. F. does not recognize the tenth-of-a-second timing so it is doubtful if Locke's record will ever be an official record.

The clever sculptor of ancient Greece who chiseled out the wonderful statue of Mercury did not put wings on his subject's sandals because he foresaw that some day a great athletic club in the world's metropolis would use a Winged Foot for its emblem. No, indeed but Roland Locke wearing a Winged Foot is the height of propriety or something. For Mercury was the patron God of athletes and wearing his winged hat, sandals and carrying his "caduceus" represented speed as he flew about in the business of being the herald and ambassador of his father, the Mighty Jupiter.

So here's good luck to you Locke. May you have success indoors equal to your success outdoors. And most of all may you continue in good health in order to represent your Uncle Samuel at Amsterdam in July.

Feg Murray Says.

Said one bridge player to his partner, "Why are you putting on your hat and coat?"

"Well," she replied "you said you'd have to take me out."

Local College Piles Up Record

Westminster Wonder Team Has Scored 558 Points This Season

CONNOR-DELAHUNTY ARE HIGH SCORERS

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 20.—Westminster College's wonder court team added 36 points to its grand total here Saturday night when Allegheny was defeated by a 36-15 score. The United Presbyterians now have 558 points to 276 by opponents and have won 13 out of 14 games played so far this season.

Delahunty, forward, and Connor, center, have together scored more points than all opponents. Delahunty has 181 points for 14 games, while Connor has 117. Captain Tudor Lewis, guard, is third in scoring with 90 points to his credit.

This week the Titans will meet St. Francis at New Wilmington on Wednesday night and Waynesburg College on Saturday night. Both the Saints and the Yellowjackets have been defeated by Lawther's crew once this season, but the blue and white tossers expect hard games on both nights.

In addition to these two games this week, Westminster has four more games on the card. Duquesne travels to New Wilmington Saturday, Feb. 28; Thiel and Geneva are to be played away from home March 2 and March 8; and the season will be closed with a game against Grove City at New Wilmington March 10.

Oil City Y.M.C.A. Quintet To Play Locals Tonight

The strong Oil City Y. M. C. A. basketball team will play the New Castle Y. M. C. A. team tonight at the local floor. The Penn-State and Marshall teams of the City League will play the preliminary game at 8 o'clock.

The Venango County team is reputed to be one of the strongest in the Northwestern Pennsylvania district and they have had a successful season to date.

New Castle High To Play Ellwood Here On Tuesday

New Castle high school basketball team faces the supreme test this week, by meeting Ellwood City high here on Tuesday night, and playing at Evans City high on Friday night. The locals need these two victories to keep them at the top of the heap in Section III.

The loss to Butler high on Friday night places the Red and Black clad warriors against the wall as the saying goes, they must go out now and fight for the championship. Several weeks ago it looked as if the New Castle team would surely repeat their 1927 performance when they carried through to the Section IV title in perfect fashion, but the loss of two games to Beaver Falls and Butler has changed the complexion to quite an extent.

Butler high to keep the lead along with New Castle must defeat Zelienople high tomorrow night at Zelienople and also defeat New Brighton high at Butler on Friday night, in event New Castle comes through with a pair of victories. If anything Butler high has the hardest row to hoe before the title is cinched.

The Ellwood City team will give the locals plenty in the way of opposition tomorrow night at Senior high school. The "Tubers" have a clever aggregation this year and they are bound to put forth their best efforts in their meeting with the Red and Black. At Ellwood recently the Coach Lee cohorts gave New Castle a hard battle and they have improved since that time.

Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh is seriously thinking of shaking up the team somewhat and it would not be surprising if the New Castle lineup for Tuesday night found some new faces, or at least a switch they may tend to improve the weak offense. The game Friday night at Butler showed the locals to be lacking in any concerted drive on the hoops, you can't win basketball games on two field goals, that is certain.

The New Castle High School girls team will play the Ellwood City High maidens in the preliminary game at 7:15 o'clock tomorrow night. The locals defeated the Ellwood maidens in a recent game at Ellwood City.

Over 1300 Schools In Relay Carnival

University Of Pennsylvania Relay Carnival Attracts Hundreds Of Institutions

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—Approximately 1,316 colleges, high schools, preparatory and elementary schools have been invited to participate in the annual University of Pennsylvania's relay carnival this year scheduled for April 27 and 28. Last year some 1,283 institutions were invited with 471 participating. Out of the number invited this year at that rate at least 500 should take part and possibly many more will as the carnival will contain a number of Olympic events this year.

Of the number of institutions invited colleges number 402; high schools 437; preparatory schools 169; local junior high schools 20; elementary schools 200 and parochial schools 88.

The standard Olympic event, the 300-meter steeplechase has been substituted for the usual two mile run.

Davies-Wolgast Battle Tonight

Third Meeting Between Flyweights Scheduled For Pittsburgh Tonight

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.—Two of the leading contenders for the flyweight championship, Willie Davies of Charleroi and Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia meet here tonight in a ten-round bout.

In addition to its national importance, the bout has been heralded as a match involving the unofficial flyweight championship of Pennsylvania. The promoters of the card advertised it as a ten-round battle "for the flyweight championship of the state" but the Pennsylvania athletic commission declared it otherwise.

This will be the third bout between the contestants. Davies won the first, fought at Atlantic City, but he lost the second encounter at Philadelphia.

New Castle Girls Trim Sharon 20-18

New Castle High Girls Annex Brilliant Victory Over Sharon

Ponian And Patton Star For Locals In Game Here Saturday

New Castle high school girls basketball team gained the most impressive victory of the season here on Saturday night at the Senior high gym when they defeated the famous Sharon high girls team 20 to 18.

The game was without doubt one of the best girls games played at the local floor in a number of years. The New Castle team hopelessly outclassed in the first half of the game staged a rally in the closing periods that gave them a two point victory.

At the end of the first half the Sharonites had the locals beaten 12 to 5 and it looked as if the Mercer countians would repeat their victory over the New Castle girls but things happened rapidly in the third and fourth quarters and the visitors soon found their lead wiped out.

Miss Ann Ponian the New Castle stellar forward and Miss Patton shared honors as far as the scoring was concerned, with Miss Wygonowski and Miss Kaufman playing a strong game at the guard points. For the Sharon team the work of Miss Wise and Miss Stambaugh featured.

The summary:

New Casale—20.		Sharon—18.
Ponian	F	Wise
Clark	F	Stambaugh
Plattner	C	O'Brien
Paton	S. C	Brenner
Wygonowski	G	Zvarich
Kaufman	G	Shook

Subs. Craig, Parker, Christenson, DeVore, Lewis.

Fugazy Announces Three Big Bouts

New York Promoter Announces Plans For Three Important Fights This Summer

FIRST OUTDOOR BOUT ON MAY 3

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Humbert J. Fugazy, the man who talks a great rivalry with Tex Rickard, emerged from the deep silences today to claim that he has virtually beaten Rickard to the first title match of the outdoor season. He says he has just about closed with Tony Canzoneri to defend his newly acquired featherweight championship against Charley Phil Rosenberg at Ebbets field, Brooklyn, on the night of May 3. This is claim No. 1.

No. 2 is that Mickey Walker has agreed to defend his middleweight title under the good signor's auspices against George Courtney, the Oklahoman; Rene De Vos, the Belgian; Maxie Rosenbloom, the French Canadian, or any candidate acceptable to the New York commission.

Claim No. 3 is that the winner of the Godfrey-Paulino fight on the coast will be brought east to meet Knute Hansen in a heavyweight elimination contest at the Polo grounds. Just what the survivor of this three-handed pinochle match is to do next, the good signor neglects to say. Nor does he go into details that might reconcile Paulino's adherence with the $8,000 controversy he and the good signor are indulging in at the moment. This is the only portion of the signor's proposed program that doesn't exactly add up right.

However, it may be that he won't need Paulino after Godfrey gets thru with him.

Captain Campbell Sets Speed Record At Daytona Beach

British Racer Now Holds World's Record Of 206.95602 Miles An Hour

(International News Service)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—Captain Malcolm Campbell, British racer, today held the new world's auto speed record, having driven his Napier Bluebird over the Daytona-Ormond beach at a rate of 206.95602 miles per hour. It took him 17.395 seconds to cover the mile. This was over three miles per hour faster than the world record established last year by Major H. O. D. Segrave.

Captain Campbell took a four-mile start before he passed the first timing device over the mile course. His first run with the wind gave him an average of 214.79713 miles per hour. On the return trip, against the wind, he covered the mile at 199.66722 miles per hour. The elapsed time was the new world record of 206.95 miles per hour.

Campbell said that he didn't even "let her out", and that he would probably try to better his record.

Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis will attempt to break Campbell's record today in his Stutz Special. His machine, equipped with two Miller marine engines, is said to be the latest in race car construction.

J. M. White, Philadelphia sportsman, will also attempt to break the new record in his special Triplex racer.

Savoia Quintet To Play Temple Israel

The newly reorganized Casa Savoia Big Five will play the Temple Israel team of the City Church League, tonight at 8:30 o'clock on the House of Savoia floor. The Savoia Juniors will play the Italian Stars in the first game at 7:30 o'clock.

At a recent meeting of the Savoia team a reorganization was effected with Benny Marino taking the position as coach and appointing Mash as captain of the team, and also coach of the Juniors. This step was taken to promote harmony among the players.

The Savoia team has won twenty four and lost eight this year, and have scored 944 points to 633 for their opponents. The Savoia Juniors have won seventeen and lost one, and have scored 406 points to 211 for their opponents.

On Thursday night the Savoia Five will meet the South Side Merchants on the Lincoln-Garfield gym floor, and will meet the Mahoningtown A. A. on Friday at the House of Savoia floor.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Foot racing is becoming almost as prevalent for fouls as boxing, as Lloyd Hahn claims that he had been fouled by Ray Conger, who beat Hahn in the 1,000-yard feature of the Kansas City race recently. Prior to Hahn's claim Conger had charged Doctor Peltzer with having fouled him and in a later race won from the German.

Wrestling fans are hurrying into St. Louis, where Strangler Lewis and Joe Stecher meet tonight, and it is possible the two grapplers will draw a gate of $100,000. Stecher will weigh 225 pounds and Lewis will hit the beam at 228 pounds. Each have won from the other, and tonight's match will decide the championship which Stecher holds.

Collegians Trim Presbyterians

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 20.—The New Wilmington Collegians continued their winning streak on Friday night, at the local floor when they downed the Central Presbyterian team of New Castle, by a score of 25 to 14.

At the close of the first half the score stood 12 to 9 in favor of the Collegians. The locals came back in the second half with a fast passing attack that netted them thirteen points to five for their opponents. Roherbaugh with six field goals led the Collegians, with the Hutchinson brothers also playing good basketball. For the New Castle team the work of Uhle and Campbell was the best.

The summary:—

Collegians 25		Presbyterians 14
T. Hutchison	F	Shoaff
Kanagy	F	Campbell
W. Hutchison	C	Bratchie
Rohrbaugh	G	Uhle
Moore	G	Carson

Field Goals—Rohrbaugh 6, W. Hutchison 2, T. Hutchison 2, Uhle 2, Campbell 2, Shoaf.

Fouls—Collegians, 5 out of 14; Presbyterians, 4 out of 7.

Lloyd Hahn To Race Tonight In New York City

Runner Defeated By Conger Will Start New Winning Streak Tonight

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Lloyd Hahn, whose unbroken string of 31 victories was snapped by Ray Conger in Kansas City Saturday night, will attempt to start another winning streak at the annual New York A. C. games here tonight.

Hahn will run in the Baxter mile in an effort to capture his second leg on the trophy. He will compete against Sidney Robinson of Mississippi, Willie Sullivan, formerly of Georgetown, and J. J. Elliott of North Carolina, hailed as the South's best miler.

The galaxy of track stars entered in the other events includes E. Monty Wells of Dartmouth, intercollegiate champion in the hurdles; Sabin Carr of Yale, champion pole vaulter; Al Miller, the Harvard sprinter; Roland Locke of Nebraska, another crack sprinter; Weems Baskin, Alabama hurdler, and Karl Wildermuth of Georgetown.

Conger's victory over Hahn at Kansas City, in which the Iowa star stepped 1,000 yards in the amazing time of two minutes and 11 seconds, clipping 1 4-5 seconds from Hahn's indoor record, was the leading topic of conversation among track enthusiasts here today. While some declared that there must have been an error in the distance or timing, the great majority hailed Conger as a great Olympic prospect. Conger has also defeated Dr. Peltzer, the German ace.

Penn State Baseball Plan Southern Trip

On Training Trip In South; Will Meet Six Leading College Teams

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 20.—The Penn State baseball team will emulate a big league club this spring, playing half of its games on foreign fields with frequent railroad jumps thrown in for good measure. The Nittany Lions will take three road trips during the coming season, including a southern training trip of one week in which they will meet six of the leading college teams in the South.

The schedule for the 1928 season, which has just been approved by the athletic board of control, also includes a number of home games with old rivals of Penn State in neighboring colleges. A game with alumni players will be played on the home field during commencement week in addition.

April 2, University of Virginia, at Charlottesville; April 3, Duke University, at Durham, N. C.; April 4, Wake Forest College, at Wake Forest, N. C.; April 5, Elon College, at Elon College, N. C.; April 6, Randolph-Macon, at Ashland, Va.; April 7, Georgetown, at Washington, D. C.; April 12, Juniata, at State College; April 14, Dickinson at State College; April 20, Gettysburg, at State College; April 21, Ursinius, at State College; April 28, Villa Nova, at State College; May 4 and 5, Syracuse, at Syracuse; May 12, Albright, at State College; May 16, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; May 17, Princeton, at Princeton; May 19, Holy Cross, at Worcester, Mass.; May 26, Lebanon Valley, at State College; June 2, Bucknell, at State College; June 11, Alumni, at State College.

Mercer High Wins From Wilmington

College Town High Defeated At Mercer Saturday Night 23 To 18

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Feb. 20.—Rolling in a big score in the first half, the Mercer high school basketball team defeated the New Wilmington passers 23-18 in a fast game played at Mercer Saturday night. Showing improved floor work and shooting the Mercer five won out in the first two periods, the score at half time being 15-6.

In the second half the college town quintet staged a comeback, but the final whistle ended the game before the Mercer lead could be overcome. Broadbent was the star of the Mercer combine, scoring four "two-pointers". The work of Captain Herriott and Patterson featured the play of the New Wilmington team.

New Wilmington shot 6 out of 13 fouls while the Mercer combine made 5 out of 11 chances.

Even closer than the main game was the preliminary game in which the New Wilmington girls lost 21-19 to the Mercer sextet after leading for the first three periods.

The lineup:

New Wilmington	G.	F.	T.
Patterson, F	0	1-1	0

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

The two most confusing pitchers in the National league, if not in the majors, have just traded uniforms in the recent deal between the Giants and Pirates. The two are Burleigh Grimes and Vic Aldridge.

Aldridge, who becomes a Giant, is a curve-ball artist. He has an unusual curve, even in a league where hurlers are born with a hook in their arms and are raised on pretzels.

His curve just about travels all around the infield before reaching the batter. He starts his curve ball with a motion that suggests a throw to shortstop. When the ball finally leaves his hand he is looking toward left field.

The catcher, after some experience exercises presence of mind enough not to pay any attention to the ball until it gets within 10 feet of the plate.

The batter's success is dependent upon his ability to co-ordinate his swing and his prayer.

Grimes is one of three spitball pitchers still in the league. His effectiveness is due mainly to the confusion into which he throws the batter with his first offering.

The batter approaches the plate under the beating rays of a summer sun. As he swings at the first ball he suddenly finds it is beginning to rain. By the time he has adapted himself to the change of climatic conditions the damage is done.

Grimes pitched for the Pirates for two or three seasons, but failed to star. Experienced players in the league had learned to expect any kind of weather in Pittsburgh, and most of them had become accustomed to playing in a mixture of fog, smoke and mist. This robbed Grimes of his big asset—that element of surprise, as it might be technically described.

Soon after the Texas league opens its 1928 campaign, Paul Wachtel, veteran pitcher of the Fort Worth club, is expected to celebrate his 200th anniversary. Not that he is that old, gosh no. But his first victory in the coming campaign will be his 200th win as a Texas league pitcher. He now tops all Texas league pitchers of all time in number of victories won in the circuit.

Wachtel received a chance with the Brooklyn Dodgers some 10 or 12 years ago. He had drawn attention in the minors and most of his success was attributed to his spitball. Wilbert Robinson looked him over and decided that he could be converted into a curve ball pitcher, and would not certify him as a spitball artist. That was at the time that the majors had decided not to permit the introduction of any more spitball artists after a given date.

Robbie's failure to stamp him as a moist ball artist probably cost Wachtel his future in the majors. By the time he had shown that he was at his best with the spitter the lid had been clamped down on the saliva shoot in the majors and Wachtel could not have used the delivery, had he continued in the majors.

Nap Rucker, old-time southpaw, has often said that Wachtel probably would have made the grade in the big top as a spitball pitcher.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

Now that Los Angeles has opened a fire school, smoke eating has become one of the finer arts, and ladder climbing has its place in the sun.

The first thing the future blaze battlers want to learn is how to play checkers. Every student owes it to his alma mater to try for the checker varsity or at least seek a place on the pinochle squad.

In answering an alarm the student wants to be sure and wait until the blaze has a good start. It's no fun putting out a small fire, and besides, it's unsportsmanlike.

No matter where the blaze may be in the house, always go down into the cellar first. After a look around the fireman can go up and fight the fire full of courage and what not. If possible, bring a bottle of the what not with you.

Hole cutting is one phase of the business which many firemen have overlooked. A real fireman never attends a fire, no matter how small, without cutting holes in the roof, a few floors and a wall or two. This creates a draft and makes the fire far more interesting.

N. Y. STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—After an irregular opening, in which losses and gains in the speculative industrials were about evenly divided, moderate recoveries were recorded in the active stocks in the first period today. Last week's drastic declins of the over-bulled specialties naturally encouraged the building up of an extensive short account, covering of which reflected in good buying demand for Greene Cananea, International Nickel, Freeport Texas and other well known specialties.

Greene Cananea and Vanadium jumped about 7 points each, leading a sharp rally in the speculative specialties in the first half hour. Recoveries of 1 to 3 points were scored by Freeport Texas, Radio, International Paper, Gold Dust, Montgomery Ward and other trading favorites. The New York City Gas stocks snapped back into position, and even the oil stocks exhibited moderate rallying power. The motor stocks recovered the bulk of last week's losses, with Studebaker, Nash and Packard leading the rally.

St. Goddard Leads In Dog-Sled Race

(International News Service)

QUEBEC, Feb. 20.—Emil St. Goddard and his team of "huskies" were leading the pack today at the fourteen-mile mark in the international dog-sled Derby. Goddard's team was one hour and fourteen minutes. Today's lap covers forty miles. The race will be continued tomorrow and Wednesday for a total mileage of 120.

St. Goddard was only one minute ahead of youthful Paddy Nolan. Eearl Brydges was third and Frank Dupuis fourth. Leonhard Seppala, veteran musher, was tied with four other contestants, one minute behind Dupuis.

Mrs. E. P. Ricker was considerably behind.

Thaw Protege Is New Leading Woman In Movie Industry

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 20.—Anita Rivers, protege of Harry K. Thaw, erstwhile film empressario, has crashed the gate and henceforth will be known to cinema customers as Ann Page. The new name was adopted when the dazzling blonde was signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as leading woman for William Haines.

Susan Hughes, the brunette picked by Thaw to share celluloid glories with his fair haired "find," has returned to New York without breaking into the movies.
